A First Thanksgiving Dinner

For Mr. and Mrs. Alfons Spatz and their three children, Thanksgiving Day, 1955, was really a red-letter day. The Latvian salesman's family arrived in Lincoln Thursday morning and will make their home here. And Thursday noon, at the

Spatz, 3; Mr. and Mrs. Alfons Spatz; Jorgen Spatz, 9; Gens Reimers; Mrs. Carl Reimers; Gisela Reimers, and Mrs. Ernest Kolberg. The Spatz family's immigration to the United States was sponsored by C. W. Olson of 1234 Fall Creek Rd. (Star Photo.)

-90 Per Cent- Demo Ag Stand Is Positive Rigid Supports Demanded

By J. W. DAVIS
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democrats' special advisory committee on agriculture came out formally and unanimously Thursday for "restoration of farm price supports at not less than 90 per cent of parity."

It said the Eisenhower system of flexible price supports "has been painful to both farmers and consumers" and added:

"Farmers have been brought to the verge of bankruptcy. The Eisenhower program has been an absolute failure."

The farm issue already stacks up as one of the hottest in sight for the 1956 election campaigns, because farm income has been dropping while other segments of the economy are booming.

Flexible, Rigid

One big argument is over rigid vs flexible price supports. The Eisenhower administration put in effect a flexible system under which government price guarantees vary in relation to supplies. In times of surplus, price supports are lowered; in times of shortages, supports are raised.

Before the flexible system was voted by Congress at the request of the Eisenhower administration there existed a system of rigid price supports established early in World War II to increase production. On basic commodities, the level was 90 per cent of parity. Parity is a standard designed to reflect a fair price for farm products in relation to what the farmer has to pay for things he needs.

Surpluses were accumulated in storage under the rigid system. Secretary of Agriculture Benson maintains these are a major factor in depressing farm prices. The Democratic farm committee Thursday said the administration has put up "a smoke screen of greatly exaggerated 'surpluses.'"

Two former secretaries of agriculture, Claude R. Wickard of Camden, Ind., and Charles F. Brannan of Denver, were among those who signed the recommendations, which went to the Democratic national committee.

Other recommendations called for "sympathetic aid" from the government for the Rural Electrification Administration and other cooperatives, expansion of the school lunch and another programs for domestic distribution of food, greater exports, and lower interest rates on all types of farm loans.

Control Board Building Benefits Mental Hospitals

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

The Board of Control says that the building program for state institutions made possible by the 1.1 mill levy is not being used to provide "brick and mortar" custodial care for more and more state wards, but actually is being used to provide increased treatment centers—particularly at mental hospitals.

It was pointed out that building at the state institutions has been neglected for a large number of years partly due to the drought and depression and that the new buildings are largely replacements for buildings condemned by the state fire marshal as unsafe. The building levy made this possible.

At the Kearney Boys' Training School three new dormitories were constructed to house 162 boys. These replaced four old cottages that were removed.

At Lincoln State Hospital a new admissions building providing 316 beds was constructed. An old structure known as the "B" building was taken out of service—as a ward building and converted into a therapy building, both occupational and recreational, as well as a library.

Crowded Conditions

The old building had contained 180 beds for patients. The new building has 316 beds. Before the new building was constructed patients were often cared for in corridors because of overcrowded conditions. A porch had been used for several years in an attempt to care for mentally ill patients.

New bed space was added to the total under the jurisdiction of the Board of Control by building the 250-bed minimum security building at the Penitentiary.

Benefits from this building planned in the building program several years ago were shown during the rioting of the past year. None of the inmates of this building participated and no one has attempted escape from it.

New bed space was also added to the Psychiatric Institute in Omaha where 100 beds provide for short treatments and also for training of psychiatrists and institution workers by the University of Nebraska.

A medical-surgical and receiving building was built at Norfolk State Hospital, with 466 beds. This permitted transfer of about 100 patients from Hastings and eliminated the overcrowding.

An addition was made to the intensive treatment building at Hastings Mental Hospital which will add 136 beds. A new medical-surgical building with about 214 beds is expected to be completed about Jan. 1.

About 700 patients at Hastings were housed in the south wing and the center of the main building and part of the north wing before the new quarters. Still in the north wing are 140 patients to be moved to the new quarters.

Also being razed is the south annex which when in full use housed about 200 patients. A farm house which housed 30 patients has also been razed. Two stories of another building have also been converted to therapy uses.

The medical and surgical building at Beatrice State Hospital is being remodeled with the addition of 60 beds. The overcrowding here was probably the greatest of any institution in the state.

Play rooms were added when the nursery at the Home for Children in a remodeling project but no new beds were added.

Other new buildings or major additions to existing buildings including remodeling listed were:

Quarters for 40 employees at Beatrice State Home.

Heating plant at Girls' Training

School, Geneva, completely replaced.

Administration building at Hastings State Hospital replaced old office section in main building.

School building at Boys' Training School replaced class rooms scattered through several frame buildings.

Cold storage facilities at Hospital for Tuberculosis, Kearney, were replaced in addition to kitchen.

New heating plant replaced old inadequate plant at Lincoln State Hospital. An addition and remodeling of the kitchen replaced old facilities designed to serve about half of the present population.

An addition to the Orthopedic Hospital kitchen permitted modernization, additional space and cold storage facilities.

A central laundry was built at the Penitentiary replacing obsolete and inadequate laundries at five institutions.

A new dairy and creamery building was built at Norfolk State Hospital to remove activities from the patient area and replace old farm buildings.

Move Pupils
Classrooms were provided in an addition at the School for the Deaf, Omaha and removed pupils from the main building.

A school was built at the Home for Children replacing use of basements in dormitories and old frame buildings for classrooms.

In addition to actual buildings a considerable amount of funds has been used to improve heating plants, power plants, water supply and distribution systems, streets and grounds at the various institutions.

It was explained that the big medical-surgical building was constructed at Norfolk partly to bring the three mental institutions on a par as to patient population and due to the saving because it could be built without adding to heating and other facilities.

Generally Fair Day Is Forecast

A generally fair Friday was forecast by the Weather Bureau to follow a night which was expected to bring some snow to the extreme northeast.

The forecast predicted light snow in the extreme northeast area on Thursday night and early Friday morning.

High temperatures were expected to be in the 20s across the state.

$6 Taken

Six dollars in change was taken from the cigar counter in the lobby of the Stuart Building after the lock of the cash drawer was punched, police reported. They said a boy of about 15 was found lying across the counter Thursday morning, and was told to leave. The robbery was discovered later by J. J. Leik, counter manager.

D-Y Prosecution Is Urged By Democrats

-Armenia- Football Rioters Get Jail

Soviet Sends 12
To Pen Terms
For Protests

MOSCOW (AP)—The Armenian Soviet Republic's Supreme Court has sentenced 12 persons to jail terms ranging up to 25 years following a riot which broke out in a football game at Terevan, the republic's capital.

A disputed referee's decision apparently touched off smoldering discontent which reportedly has been below the surface for some time in Armenia.

There is nothing unusual in disturbances following a sporting event in the Soviet Union, any more than there is in Western countries. But such severe sentences, such publicity and appearances before a Supreme Court are unusual in the extreme.

Experienced observers in Moscow doubted that any such sentences would have been imposed if there had not been political motivation in the action at the football field.

6 Executed

This belief was reinforced by the fact that six persons were executed for counter-revolutionary activities just before this in the neighboring republic of Georgia and 3,000 persons expelled from the Communist party of Georgia.

A story reporting the riot and court action appeared in the Yerevan newspaper Kommunist reaching Moscow Thursday. Under the heading "In the Supreme Court of the Armenian Republic," the newspaper said:

"In the collegium of the Supreme Court of the Armenian Republic there has finished the consideration of the criminal case of the accusation against a group of instigators of disorders which took place on Oct. 12 of this year in the republican stadium."

Students Present

"Twelve people were tried. Numerous representatives of workers, employers and students were present in the courtroom. They said that on the day when a football match took place for the Class B championship of the Soviet Union, groups of hooligans and criminals using dissatisfaction of a part of the crowd at the result of the game started riots."

"The disorders were accompanied by attempts to lynch the referee of the football game. The riot was accompanied by violence and resistance to the representatives of authority."

Kommunist added: "Nine of the 12 persons who were brought to court were from the criminal element of the population who had been in court before and released. The collegium, finding all the accusations true, condemned four people to 25 years in prison and one to 20 years. Two were sentenced to 15 years, three to 10 years, one to 2 years and one to 1 year."

40-Pound Turkey

This was a prelude to the President's posing a carving knife at 5 p.m. over a 40-pound turkey, at a festive table set for nine Eisenhower.

That came out to nearly 4½ pounds of turkey apiece, to say nothing of all the trimmings. For this day, the doctors gave the President a dispensation to forget the 1900-calory diet designed to hold his weight down to 172 pounds while he recuperates from a Sept. 24 heart attack.

No outside guests were invited in for dinner—only the President and Mamie Eisenhower, the three grandchildren, their parents, Major and Mrs. John Eisenhower of Ft. Belvoir, Va.; and the President's

Ike, Grandchildren Romp Over Farm

President Counts Blessings
Of Returning Health,
Family Happiness

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower counted the blessings of returning health and a happy family gathering on this Thanksgiving Day. He also had a joyous outing with his grandchildren and their pony and cart.

Togged out in sports clothes that matched his gay mood, the President had 7-year-old grandson David out by 8 a.m., peering into the big barn at Tony, a black and white Shetland pony, and looking over the kennels and dogs.

In mid-morning, Tony was hitched up to a two-wheeled cart with red trimmings and Eisenhower, David, and the two little granddaughters, Barbara Anne, 6, and Susan, 3, meandered over to the farm of Ivan Feaster.

The Feaster farm adjoins the President's estate and Feaster manages both places.

With photographers and newsmen looking on, the Chief Executive offered some grandfatherly advice to David:

"Hey! Quit chewing gum! You're getting your picture taken!"

And when young David gave an extra hard yank on the reins:

"Easy! Always remember a horse has as tender a mouth as you have. Be very careful."

"I have to be tough with him," the youngster replied, "so he'll know who's driving him."

Another woman was booked in police headquarters on an open charge in connection with the knifing of the woman. Police said the woman booked in suffered a cut hand.

And a third woman suffered a forehead laceration when hit with a bottle. She was treated at the hospital and later released.

Police said witnesses reported the woman who was knifed came over to a table where the woman who pulled the knife was sitting and attempted to quarrel. After the quarrel was broken up the woman came back and threw bottles at the other two. Then one of the women slashed her with a pocket knife.

Butler, in his statement, said the AEC's action "although overdue, is welcome." Then he asked:

"Will the administration that called the Democratic exposure of the Dixon-Yates deal a 'smear' now come forward with quick and determined prosecution of the now-admitted wrong-doing within the inner circle of the administration?"

Kefauver, who was traveling over the Thanksgiving Day holiday, could not be reached immediately for comment.

Butler asserted that a number of questions still remained to be answered by the administration in connection with the moribund contract.

"On what basis did the AEC general counsel advise the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee (on July 13) that the Dixon-Yates contract was 'valid and binding'?" the Democratic chief asked.

100 Million Saved—Butler

'Admitted Wrong-Doing Within Inner Circle' Of GOP Administration
Charged By Demo Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats took credit Thursday for final repudiation of the Dixon-Yates contract and asked whether prosecutions will follow "the now admitted wrong-doing within the inner circle" of the Eisenhower administration.

The Atomic Energy Commission, which signed the controversial private power pact at the direction of President Eisenhower, announced Wednesday night that no damages would be paid to the Dixon-Yates interests for its subsequent cancellation.

The AEC's chief counsel said the contract involved a "conflict of interest" and he raised the question whether the law had been violated.

Pouncing on this as proof that the Democrats were right all along in their opposition to the power project and the way it was negotiated, Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler said in a statement:

"The two-year fight of the Democrats to stop the Dixon-Yates deal is a splendid example of how a vigilant opposition can serve the public interest."

"Blocking the deal saved the taxpayers more than 100 million dollars in excess power costs, and now there should be another four-or-five-million-dollar saving of cancellation fees because of the investigation which uncovered the conflict of interest violation."

Political Fodder

It was manifest that the AEC repudiation will furnish the Democrats with political ammunition for many months to come.

Sen. Anderson (D-NM), chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, and Sen. Gore (D-Tenn), another leading fighter against the Dixon-Yates contract, hailed the AEC action as a victory for their side.

The AEC acted on the basis of an opinion from its counsel, William Mitchell, that Adolph Wenzell, a New York financier, sat on both sides of the table as adviser to the government and the utilities group.

Dixon-Yates interests have refused to accept the AEC's repudiation, and the issue will be fought out in the courts.

Originally the AEC contracted for the construction of a 107-million-dollar power plant at West Memphis, Ark., to feed electricity into the grid of the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA). The power was to have replaced electricity drained from the grid by AEC installations.

Eisenhower ordered the contract canceled last July after the city of Memphis, which was to have absorbed most of the additional power, decided to build its own generating plant.

But this was not enough for the Democrats. A Senate inquiry group headed by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) dug into the history of the contract pointed to Wenzell's dual role and charged the administration had tried to cover it up.

Ordered Canceled

Butler, in his statement, said the AEC's action "although overdue, is welcome." Then he asked:

"Will the administration that called the Democratic exposure of the Dixon-Yates deal a 'smear' now come forward with quick and determined prosecution of the now-admitted wrong-doing within the inner circle of the administration?"

Kefauver, who was traveling over the Thanksgiving Day holiday, could not be reached immediately for comment.

At whose direction was the name of Adolph Wenzell stricken from the supposedly complete chronology of the Dixon-Yates deal arranged by the AEC and the Budget Bureau in August 1954, and what action does the administration plan to take against those responsible?" Butler demanded to know what action would be taken against Budget Director Rowland R. Hughes, "who told the Kefauver committee on June 27, 1955, that he had not participated in the arrangement to bring... Wenzell into the Budget Bureau—whereas Wenzell testified that it was Hughes who called him and asked him to work on the Dixon-Yates contract."

His Last Christmas Little Early

...Tot's Eyes Brightened

CHICAGO (AP)—Elsewhere Thursday was Thanksgiving, but in the Tate Stoor home it was Christmas.

Santa Claus pounced on the door at 8:30 a.m. and strode into the house with a big sack of toys slung over his shoulder.

"Hello, there, Santa," shouted Guy Alan Stoor, a red-haired 3-year-old.

Santa walked over to Guy's bed, lifted the lad and perched him on his knee.

The youngster's eyes shone brightly as Santa pulled a toy train stuffed animals and a railroad engineer's suit from his sack.

But Guy won't be able to play with the toys. He was too weak even to eat his candy or the big turkey dinner cooked for the family.

The Christmas on Thanksgiving was arranged because Stoor, 33, and his wife, 32, expect Guy to live only a few more days.

An emergency operation in October disclosed the little boy has a stomach malignancy. Doctors said a second operation six days ago showed there is no further hope.

Neighbors learned of Guy's fate and everyone wanted to help. One, Chester Miconerski, who often plays Santa Claus at parties, volunteered his services for the day. Neighborhood children dropped in to help Guy's sisters, Giner, 8, and Cara, 6, and his brothers, Randy, 11, and Bryan, 9, wish him a merry Christmas. Another neighbor found a Christmas tree at a flower shop. Others sent gifts.

"It is wonderful to know that everyone cares," said Mrs. Stoor. "We don't feel so alone."

"We are fortunate to have our boy here for Thanksgiving," Guy's father said. "This we are thankful for today."

Khrushchev Claims Russia's Iron Curtain Ripped Aside

'NO ONE' DENIED ENTRY

By HAROLD K. MILKS
BOMBAY, India (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev declared Thursday night Russia has torn aside the so-called Iron Curtain. "No one who applied for permission to enter the Soviet Union was refused a visa this year," he said.

The Soviet Communist party chief challenged other countries to open their frontiers—"as we have"—in a speech before the Indian-Soviet Cultural Society, concluding the Russian leaders' visit to Bombay.

"Why," he said, "we had at least 17 American senators touring Russia this year, I believe, as well as farmers, newsmen and others. Does that sound like an Iron Curtain?"

Speaks At Banquet
Both Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai Bulganin, who preceded him in speaking to more than 750 people at a banquet praised the society for contributing to improved relations between the two countries and assisting world peace.

Bombay State Gov. Harekrishna Mahtab sounded the keynote for the meeting when he told Khrushchev and Bulganin:

"That your country stands firmly for peace is not questioned seriously in any quarter."

Khrushchev said India and Russia are firmly committed to work together for peace and "the welfare of our future generations." He frequently thundered at "enemies who would find a way to end peace."

Warns West
Warning Western nations "Russia does not stand alone today," he said, "We have many other countries who think as we do and India is among them."

"In competition for peace we are sure to win," he told members of the society. "The capitalist press accused me of making a slip of the tongue when I said that in Moscow—they said my tongue was loose—but it was no slip."

"We will not deviate from the path set for us by Lenin."

Tear Gas Ends Dixie Student Riot

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—A near-riot broke out in downtown Savannah Thursday night following the annual Savannah High-Benedictine football game.

Use of tear gas by police was required to break up an unruly mob after hundreds of dollars worth of fire-fighting equipment was destroyed. Several persons were arrested for disorderly conduct.

The center of the disturbance was Savannah's main business intersection where victors in the annual game traditionally burn the "coffin" of the losers. Savannah won the 56th meeting of the intercity rivals 9-6.

Destruction of hoses, extinguishers, and other equipment occurred when firemen attempted to douse the fire before it could damage the paving.

Police finally called for tear gas and dispersed the mob with one well-placed bomb.

talk too loud, to threaten or raise emotions, because we are determined to maintain and expand world peace."

Bulganin, who spoke first, contented himself with praising the activities of such groups as the Indian-Soviet Cultural Society.

Khrushchev earlier added a new mark to his reputation as a stout drinker. He quaffed a mug of Indian buffalo milk at Bombay's scientific dairy—and appeared to like it.

300 Skid Row Derelicts Freed

CHICAGO (INS)—Nearly 300 of Chicago's skid row derelicts, arrested on drunk and disorderly charges, were sentenced to a "Happy Thanksgiving."

The men, who faced a bleak Thanksgiving in jail, instead were set free and given free turkey dinners through the generosity of Judge Hyman Feldman of the Monroe St. Court and the Salvation Army.

16 Rescued After Crash; 3 Missing

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—Sixteen of the 19 persons aboard a Royal Canadian Air Force plane were rescued by a tugboat crew Thursday when the big amphibious plane crashed in Johnstone Strait, 130 miles north of here.

The other three members of the plane crew are missing and believed to be dead.

The big four-engine craft was flying from the Sea Island base here when it was forced down on the rough water, RCAF officials reported. The tugboat Western Challenger drew alongside and all but three of those aboard had been rescued when the flying boat sank.

It is believed that all aboard the airplane were RCAF personnel.

Former Mental Patients Plan Organization

After meeting informally for some time, a group of recovered mental patients in Lincoln will band in an official organization Friday night at a meeting to be held at 8 p.m. at the YWCA.

The group's members will be made up of persons who had mental diseases but who have been discharged from mental hospitals. The purpose of the new organization is to help members make readjustments necessary for normal life, said one of the founders.

Somewhat like Alcoholics Anonymous, the organization will adopt a name and elect officers at its first meeting. Active membership, said a participant, would be limited to those who have recovered from mental disorders. Associate memberships would take in others interested in recovered patients, such as family members and friends.

Ministers, psychiatrists and others familiar with mental problems have offered their assistance to the new group, said a member.

One of the main objectives, said the spokesman, would be to reduce—by proper readjustment—the pattern of readmission of mental patients, an apparently significant number of persons.

DIVISION SWAP IS FINISHED

WUERZBURG, Germany (AP)—The U. S. Army 1st Division and the U. S. 10th Division have completed a months-long job of changing places, the 1st Division going to Ft. Riley, Kan., and the 10th coming here.

The transfer was made simultaneously under the Army's new gyroscope system of rotating troops under entire fighting outfits up to division size change places in what the Army says is a smoother and more efficient manner than by former piecemeal replacements.

Mrs. Woodward To Tell Jury Her Full Story Today

NEW YORK (INS)—Mrs. Ann Woodward spent a lonely Thanksgiving in her Manhattan town house, visited only by her doctor and two young sons as she reiterated her determination to tell a Nassau County Grand Jury Friday "The entire story" of the tragic accidental killing Oct. 30 of her husband, William Woodward Jr.

Dr. John M. Prutting, emerging from a 25-minute call with the former beautiful model, now aged beyond 39 years, said Mrs. Woodward "doesn't feel very well, the holiday and all."

But she is determined to be in Mineola promptly at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow," the doctor told newsmen. He said the blonde socialite had read newspaper accounts of her scheduled appearance before the jurors, and emphasized to him that she "intends to leave no questions unanswered in her testimony."

The jury, it was learned, plans to question Mrs. Woodward not only about her story of shotgunning her husband to death when she mistook him for a prowler in their Oyster Bay estate, but also about a $40,000 jewel theft from the town house a year ago.

Electrocution Of Two Workers Still Mystery

OMAHA (AP)—The Union Pacific Railroad said Thursday two workmen who died Wednesday while placing fittings on a water tank "definitely were electrocuted."

But the way the accident happened remained a mystery and a spokesman said "Maybe we'll have an idea by Friday." Ben T. Maggio, 35, and Harry R. Meier, 40, were found lying by the tank, having fallen some 15 feet. Both had severe hand burns.

TWO WOMEN SOB THEIR GRIEF FOR MURDERED MAN

LOS ANGELES (INS)—Two women sobbed out their grief Thursday for a man one of them shot to death over his love for the other.

One was Mrs. Nina Sorenson, 39, who tearfully admitted to police that she murdered her husband, William Carleton Sorenson, 39, in his sleep after an argument over "another woman."

The other was Mrs. Billie Muno, tiny, divorced mother of two, who cried, "Bring Bill back . . . this was something real."

Mrs. Sorenson freely confessed that she shot her husband, an aircraft worker, behind the left ear with an automatic pistol as he slept after kneeling in prayer beside the bed.

"One After Another"

Sobbing bitterly, the wife told officers that Sorenson had been attentive to "one girl after another" during their married life and identified Mrs. Muno as his current girl friend.

She said they argued heatedly over his affairs before he went to sleep. She watched television and prayed. She went on:

"I kept thinking of our troubles. I went into the bedroom. He was asleep in our bed. I knelt down beside him and prayed for about an hour."

"I went to my dresser and took out my gun. I went back to his side. I knelt down again. I prayed again . . . and then I shot him."

Mrs. Sorenson, who has a 19-year-old daughter by a former marriage, also said she had been troubled with migraine headaches recently.

Mrs. Muno said she began dating him when he and his wife were separated and Mrs. Sorenson had told her she would release her husband.

Thorough Basic Education Urged To Outstrip Russia

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Manpower Council reported "basic agreement" among 69 experts Thursday that if America is to win its technical race with Russia its secondary school system must be improved.

Industry, labor unions and local communities also have a part to play in fostering technical skills, many of the experts said.

The council published what it called "the broad tenor of discussion, rather than formal conclusions," of a five-day session last April at Arden House, a conference site owned by Columbia University at Harriman, N.Y.

The council was established in 1951 by Dwight D. Eisenhower when he was president of Columbia. It is financed by the Ford Foundation. Its purpose is to conduct a continuing appraisal of America's manpower problems and policies.

A summary of generally agreed-upon views of the 69 representatives of education, labor, management, government and the armed services said:

"By expanding its investment in educating and training its people, the United States can raise its skill level and thereby accelerate economic progress and contribute to its national security."

"Improvement of the nation's secondary school system is the key to broadening the base for skill acquisition. Every school should insure that its graduates have . . . the ability to read, write and calculate correctly and a sound introduction to the world of work."

CLIFTON FORGE, Va. (AP)—Miss Edith Michie, a high school teacher, loves the cat she picked up and nursed back to health. The cat, named Hoppie because an encounter with a train left it only three legs, pounced on a copperhead snake coiled to strike the teacher as she hung clothes on a line. Hoppie has received a "well done" from the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. A cat food company sent one too.

It Happened In NEBRASKA---

When the first telegraph poles extended 12 miles past Fort Kearney, Indians became disturbed and burned the poles. Later, two chiefs—500 miles apart—were invited to "talk" over the wires. When they were brought together to compare notes, they found the wires did indeed contain awesome magic!

But there's no "magic" in the way Nebraska taverns have earned public acceptance. Tavern owners have worked hard to build a highly ethical industry. You can see the result in the clean, respectable atmosphere of your local tavern.

French U.N. Boycott End Seen Today

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—France and the Asian-African group were reported agreed on a formula to end the French boycott of the U.N. Assembly by Friday afternoon.

The French walked out Sept. 30 in protest against an Assembly decision, 28-27, to look into the situation in Algeria, where nationalists are clamoring for independence from France.

The French call Algeria a part of metropolitan France and contend it is a domestic problem outside the scope of the U.N.

Informed quarters Thursday night said France and Asian and African nations that supported a hearing of the nationalist claims have accepted a proposal originated by Indian Delegate V. K. Krishna Menon. It would declare no discussion necessary at the present time and that the Assembly is no longer concerned with the Algerian question. This would drop it from the agenda.

The procedure agreed upon is that the 60-nation Political Committee will meet Friday and recommend the formula to the General Assembly and that the Assembly itself would meet by noon and ratify the committee's recommendation.

It appeared certain there would be no serious opposition to the plan and that the French boycott would end by nightfall.

Russia Nyets French Proposal; Calls 'Open Sky' Plan A Stall

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia gave a firm "no" Thursday to a new French proposal aimed at breaking the 10-year U.N. deadlock over disarmament.

The French plan, advanced by Jules Moch in the 12-nation Disarmament Commission, provided that the U.N. body concentrate its efforts on measures—such as President Eisenhower's "open sky" plan—to be put into effect in a preparatory period to create confidence before the main stages of disarmament were undertaken.

Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev told the commission this proposal had nothing to do with actual disarmament but that it was part of the new Western strategy to avoid arms reduction by stressing control machinery.

"It is clear," Sobolev said, "that such an approach cannot offer positive results."

The Soviet delegate charged that the Western powers, led by the United States, had retreated in recent months from their earlier positions on arms reduction.

The Eisenhower plan provides for an exchange of military blueprints between the United States and Russia and mutual aerial inspection. Moch had proposed that this, along with other pilot plans, be put into operation while the big powers agreed to ban the use of atomic weapons.

Sobolev said he did not doubt that the Eisenhower plan was "inspired by the best intentions," but said Russia could consider it only a part of a general disarmament plan.

CABINET MEET 'RELAXED' U.N. MEMBER BIAS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A Western diplomat said Thursday the United States is taking steps to get itself off a diplomatic hot spot and permit the admission of 13 applicants to the United Nations this year.

This diplomat said an impression of a slightly relaxed U. S. position on memberships began to pervade U. N. quarters after U. S. chief delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. returned Tuesday from the Cabinet meeting in Camp David, Md.

The diplomat said the Americans finally realize they will be blamed by their friends if they kill the membership issue by opposition to admitting Red-sponsored Outer Mongolia.

Prospective members who are great friends of the United States, such as Italy, Japan and Spain, were said to be asking Washington if the United States would prefer to have Outer Mongolia out of the United Nations than to have them in it.

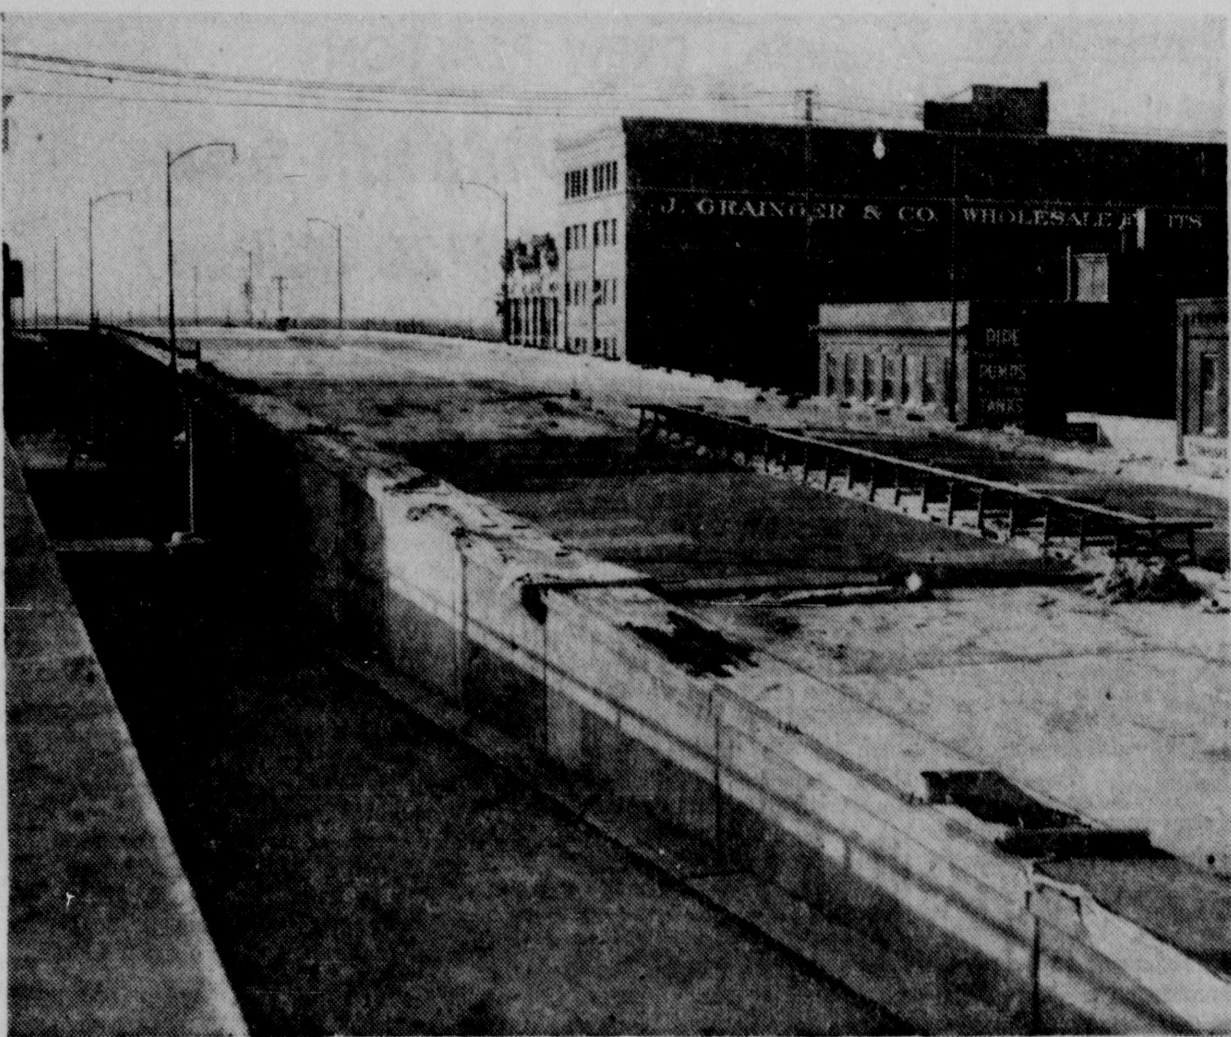

The State Department was reported to feel it must continue its stand on Outer Mongolia. However, in view of the mounting protests from close and friendly countries the United States is said to be just about ready to let others organize the membership vote so that all 13 will be certain of acceptance. Many loose diplomatic ends must be tied up to accomplish this result.

The Soviet Union has said it will veto all the candidates if Outer Mongolia is barred.

Patient Kills Doctor During Clinic Check

TORONTO (AP)—A man pulled a rifle from under his topcoat, pointed it squarely at the doctor's chest and fired.

The doctor was a lieutenant colonel of the Royal Army Medical corps in World War II and served in the Mediterranean theater.

Hospital doctors said the man arrested was believed to be one who had been treated there at intervals.

He was grabbed by other patients and hospital attendants and held for police.

'Even' Chance FBI Has Your Fingerprints

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Geographic Society says "the chances are almost even" that the fingerprints of "the average American" are in the FBI files.

The society reports "the 137 million sets of prints jamming the bureau's files represent, with allowances for duplication, 70 million people."

It adds "by far the bulk of the cards carry the fingerprints of government employees, defense workers, members of the armed forces," and "people who volunteer their identification."

Public Information

The American people generally will applaud the decision of the Defense Department to make public the information on congressional junkets abroad.

There is no good reason why these records should be kept secret. It is the public which foots the bill. Now, there are occasions, many of them, when it is highly desirable that members of Congress travel abroad in order to determine particularly the effectiveness of America's international program calling for millions of dollars of aid for underprivileged and backward peoples. But it should not be too difficult to discriminate between travel in the public interest and wasteful trips.

The fact is that the congressional junket has become a matter of increasing abuse in recent years. Each session has seen more and more members of both the House and the Senate availing themselves of the opportunity to visit faraway places at the expense of the American taxpayer. If a junket is justified, it will not be difficult for the member of Congress to defend himself from criticism. But at least the public has a right to know how many members of the two branches of Congress traveled at the expense of the American taxpayers.

Education's Banner Month

November, 1955, will go into the records as a memorable month for Nebraska education. In a series of 10 elections cross-sectioning the state, proposing $35,455,000 for school plant expansion and improvement, citizens picked up the tab for $31,945,000.

It was a grand slam for Omaha which approved a $7 million issue for its West Side November 15, and then came back with a heavy majority for $22 million more this week.

Outstate the score evened out. Columbus, Minden, Falls City and Ord voted additional facilities aggregating $2,945,000. Proposals aggregating $3,510,000 met defeat at Pleasanton, Hyannis, Holdrege and Kearney.

But in terms of dollars, Nebraskans voted 10 to one for educational expansion.

It has not been a top crop year. It has also been a time of falling agricultural prices. Such circumstances are not conducive to heavy added outlays for community services. Yet Nebraska was not deterred. Into the results must be read the ever-characteristic confidence of Nebraska citizens in the necessity for progress and development. And in it also can be detected a signal achievement on the part of the state's custodians of education who have made a convincing presentation of education's current problems.

Extracting The Last Drop

America's "friendly" electric utilities, it appears, will be overlooking no bet in extracting the last drop of satisfaction they can obtain from a Washington election which saw the citizens of a thinly-populated farming and mining county plunk it down by a margin of more than two to one for private power in preference to a public power program.

Chances are that the outcome of an election at Colville, Washington, a community of 3,000 people, linked with a neighboring rural area for electric service has been given a significance it does not deserve. News stories prior to the voting and since the ballots were cast have suggested that here was the supreme test where the people have the opportunity for a clearcut choice between free enterprise and public power. Fact is, there were only 7,000 votes cast in the election, fewer votes than could be expected in any representative showing of hands.

And what the news stories did not show is that the public district was without funds to spend in undertaking to convince the people that over the long pull, a public power program would more nearly satisfy their needs. The utilities had ample funds for an aggressive campaign, it was said.

The Colville results, naturally giving a great deal of satisfaction to west coast private utilities, by no means furnish a clue to the final outcome of that bitter conflict now raging in the Pacific Northwest between public and private power. We shall have to wait until many more thousands of people have spoken before reaching any conclusion as to the final outcome there.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

Could be that Nebraskans were getting a preview of the future mid-week when the final returns of a program sponsored by the extension service of the University of Nebraska, "Reach For Top Corn Yields," were made public. There was the reassurance that through careful choice of seed, painstaking soil analysis, and where possible, a change-over to irrigation from dry-land farming, Nebraska could anticipate improved yields of corn—possibly small grains—far beyond fondest expectations.

Glen Nelson of Comstock, who harvested 153 bushels of corn per acre in a season generally adverse to high yields, topped all rivals. But he had formidable competition, with Max Loibl of Cozad fast on his heels with an average of 151 bushels to the acre. Then followed Darrel

Keim of Davenport with a 149-bushel-an-acre ear; Rankie Aden, Gothenburg, 148 bushels; Bob Boeka, Wood River, 146; Alfred Winholtz, Axtell, 144; Adolph Bartu, Comstock, 142; Philip Dowse, Comstock, 141; Mark Bergt, Davenport, 139; and Charles O'Neil, Norman, 138. Here was land which had been farmed for more than a quarter of a century—land no longer boasting of that fertility of early Nebraska and its sweet-smelling, freshly-turned, black earth. Nelson used 50 pounds of nitrogen per acre—saw to it that his field was irrigated seven times in between the plowing, the planting, and the final harvesting of the crop. Equally impressive were the results obtained through dry-land methods.

Clarence Tegtmeyer of Burchard walked off with top honors with an average yield of 114 bushels per acre. The prize-winning field near Burchard in Pawnee County was treated with 153 pounds of nitrogen per acre, 18 pounds of phosphorus but no potash was applied. There were four dry-land fields among the 500 Nebraska farmers participating in the program, each of whom produced more than 100 bushels of corn per acre in a season notable for the unfavorable climatic conditions which developed. These 500 farmers were distributed among 69 of the 93 counties of the state, representative in a very comprehensive sense of the corn-producing counties in Nebraska.

On the basis of these tests, it would appear that we have barely scratched the surface when it comes to Nebraska's contribution in furnishing food for the hungry mouths in this world. In 1975, if this is a demonstration of what can be done through careful soil practices and by the expansion of irrigation, then if necessary, Nebraska can double the amount of corn annually produced in this state without any increase and possibly with a decrease in the aggregate planted acres.

The heartening reflection provided by farm practices in Nebraska in the last five years adds up to the fact that each growing season seems to increase the fund of knowledge necessary to a healthy, prosperous agriculture. We are taking better care of good earth. In the season just closed, Nebraska used over a million tons of fertilizer to restore vigor and fertility to aging fields. We ranked tenth in the nation in this respect but other states have been at it longer than Nebraska. We increased the use of fertilizer 20 times in the last five years. And in the expansion of irrigation the record is even more encouraging, with more than half a million acres placed under water through pump irrigation in the last 24 months.

Which is to say that we are on the threshold of great developments in Nebraska. We have produced mountains of wheat, small grains and corn over the course of half a century of efficient farming. But on the basis of recent study and experimentation, the brightest chapter is yet to be written.

Tonic For Good Earth

On His Way

Adm. Richard E. Byrd, 67, is scheduled to leave by air today for New Zealand, his retirement temporarily a thing of the past. For the second time in his eventful naval career he will command an expedition to Antarctica. From New Zealand he and a crew of sailors and scientists will start the long cruise to the southern polar regions.

It was 30 years ago that Adm. Byrd distinguished himself as an explorer. He commanded an aerial flight over the North Pole. Twenty-six years ago he performed a greater, more extended and hazardous achievement in the Antarctic.

Thirty years is a long time in this fast-moving age. Flights over the North Pole today are routine. Exploration in the old sense no longer carries much meaning. But the new Byrd expedition will be pioneering again on its Antarctica expedition. In his first visit Byrd explored a million square miles of Antarctic wastes. This time the exploration will be one of science rather than discovery. The Antarctic has become important for its possible resources, for scientific information and for geostrategy. Most Americans will not envy his protracted labors and hardships, but all wish him the very best of success and readily accord to him a peerless place as a historic American pioneer.

Silver Lining

Since Russia lately has headed for the underdeveloped parts of the earth bearing gifts, or promises of them, to woo loyalty away from the West an interesting phenomenon of power politics is ensuing.

An example is Egypt's plans, for its proposed Aswan dam—a $1,300,000,000 development of the upper Nile greatly needed for reclamation and progress. The Egyptians have had attention from the West in its quest for aid, but no money. Now comes Russia offering aid. Straightway the West's International Bank for Reconstruction and Development has called for the files and is giving the Aswan dam a new look.

By a turn of events Egypt has had the good fortune to find itself in a beneficiary position between two rival great forces, the East and the West, and is very apt to derive more help from the rivalry than from any neighborly bargain with one without the other. Egypt will not miss the meaning of its bettered position, nor probably will any of the other minor powers. It is not what the advocates of peace and co-operation are bargaining for, but none can gain say that great quarrelsome nations more frequently do good by non-intention than by plan.

Windfall Seen Of $120 Million

WASHINGTON—Another so-called "cheese deal" is under secret discussion inside the Agriculture Department, this one involving vegetable oils and the manufacturers of soap, margarine, and shortening.

In this case, the Agriculture Department is considering knocking the indirect supports out from under vegetable oils which would permit the big soap and margarine manufacturers to buy in vegetable oils at an estimated windfall saving of $120,000,000.

In the case of the cheese deal, which was declared illegal by Comptroller General Campbell, the big cheese companies benefited from reduction in price supports on cheese by selling high and buying low, with the cheese not even leaving their warehouses. The Department of justice has had the cheese deal under scrutiny for some time but has done nothing about it.

It's interesting that the man inside the Agriculture Department who is spark-plugging the vegetable-oil windfall is Walter Berger, deputy administrator of Commodity Stabilization Service and the man who this column recently reported might have a conflict of interest. Berger has retained his stock in the Shea Chemical Corporation of Baltimore, which has been doing fertilizer business with the Agriculture Department. He was formerly executive vice president of this firm.

Berger has denied that he was in any way involved in the purchase of fertilizer as an agriculture department official.

Berger, who has spent most of his life in the farm products processing business, has been in frequent touch with one of the big three soap manufacturers, which would profit from the proposed price-lowering on vegetable oils.

FARMER WOULD LOSE

For years, the government has had a "package plan" for oil seeds, whereby the Agriculture Department purchased oil and meal from cotton seed then held the oil for export and sold the meal back to livestock producers at reasonable prices.

The net effect has been to hold up the price of vegetable oils, while at the same time keeping down the price of cotton meal in order to help the hard-pressed meat and dairy producers.

Secretary Benson recently canceled this, but was expected to replace it with a simplified oil-buying program which would cost less but have the same general effect.

Home Is Where One Scratches His Itches

Scratching in public is like sneezing in church; it is a sin only when somebody else has got to do it.

We do not condone public scratching in our family, Mrs. F. even maintaining it is a sign you need a bath, but there comes a time when the most rigid of rules must give way before an itch.

Such a time came to me. It was not lack of a bath, either, because I had taken one not more than half an hour before. It was just that I itched.

It was just a little itch at first, in the neighborhood of my lowest left rib, and I thought it would go away if I did not pay any attention to it. It did not. It danced around gleefully on my anatomy while I tried to concentrate on serious conversation about tree surgery. It was an unhappy subject to be discussing in the presence of an itch. It seemed to encourage the thing.

I hit upon what seemed a first-class idea. Being restrained by etiquette from bringing my fingers into play to give the offending spot a good old-fashioned going over, I used my elbow. By moving my left shoulder up and down, I found that my elbow massaged the itch nicely. It was not entirely satisfactory, but it helped. The trouble with scratching is, it is hard to regulate. I guess I got to going pretty fast with the elbow. Mrs. F. noticed.

"What's the matter?" she asked. "You look like one side of you is riding at a trot and the other side is sitting still."

I moved my right hand cautiously over by my left rib, hiding it under my elbow, hoping my movements seemed quite casual. May be I could scratch with just an index finger slowly, so that no one would see. I concentrated. In the midst of my concentration, I noticed a strained silence. I looked up. All eyes were upon me. Mrs. F. was staring curiously.

"Mr. Ware wants to know how you got that little elm out in front to grow so fast," she said, with a you-should've-been-listening tone.

Desperation brought me inspiration. I was past the point of caring what public opinion might be. I turned to Mr. Ware as to a deliverer.

"Just scratch around it every day," I pointed out, "I'm just using my left rib to demonstrate on—but you get the idea."

He looked at me with a doubtful expression, and Mrs. F. raised both eyebrows, but I didn't care. (Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate)

BOB CONSIDINE

Silent Cal Most Frugal Politician

NEW YORK—Two Cal Coolidge stories (of all things) were being bandied about the lobbies at the recent Democratic pow-wow in Chicago.

Silent Cal was the most frugal politician of his day. When he was vice president under Harding and it was necessary for him to meet with any political group in Chicago he'd take a train that brought him into the city early in the morning, then take a "Parmalee" to the door of the Blackstone hotel.

He wouldn't engage a room. Instead, he'd hold his meetings in a corner of the lobby, freshen up now and then in the public rest room, let himself be taken to lunch, and then take the bus back to the railroad terminal. His only spending was 15 cents for a shoe-shine.

All went well until one time support effect. Instead, his deputy, Mr. Berger, at the urgent suggestion of the big soap and margarine manufacturers, is trying to drop vegetable-oil supports altogether.

It's estimated this would permit the big manufacturers to buy around 4,000,000 pounds of vegetable oils at three cents a pound less, which would mean a windfall of $120,000,000.

Actually, our vegetable-oil surplus can be sold abroad more easily than some other surpluses which are hard to dispose of and Secretary Benson has been doing a good job of this. But if the fats are disposed of as proposed by Mr. Berger, the farmer would take a price drop of around $30,000,000, counting the indirect effect on meat and butter producers. Soap and margarine companies, in turn, would make around $120,000,000.

PROTEST GIVEAWAYS

The public was not admitted to an interesting meeting in the office of assistant secretary of the interior Wesley D'Ewart, but the sparks flew when a group of 37 conservationists protested the way D'Ewart's office was handling the public lands of the nation.

Despite this, newsmen were called into D'Ewart's office after the meeting and told that the conservationists were "encouraged" over the policies of the assistant secretary of the interior.

Actually, some hard-hitting arguments occurred behind closed doors.

"I am dumfounded and amazed," bellowed C. R. Gutermuth of the Wildlife Management Institute, "that one of the officials of the interior department has gotten off in a closet with the Navy and without anyone knowing it and given away land that was set aside by the state of North Carolina for recreational purposes."

He referred to the fact that the Navy had invaded a seashore area, with the secret approval of D'Ewart's office, despite the fact that North Carolina had given the land to the Federal government for recreational purposes only.

"All I've got to say," protested Gutermuth, "is that if that's all the protection we have for our national parks, we need some laws!"

The delegation of conservationists also challenged D'Ewart's bill in the 83rd GOP Congress aimed at giving cattlemen a salable interest in public lands; also his backing of the Ellsworth timber exchange bill, another outright giveaway of the national forests and public lands.

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

Oil May Come, Go; Wheat Goes On Forever

After due and serious consideration, the residents of the little community of Howells decided at this time against the construction of a municipal swimming pool, but the margin of decline was slim, indeed—with 205 voting against the proposed $45,000 bond issue and 196 in favor of it. The front-page editorial appeal by Mrs. H. E. Phelps of the Journal may have had a bit to do with the large majority of the more progressive-minded. Said that sprightly little lady:

"Two weeks from today I will be 90 years old and if there is anyone in Howells who doesn't need a swimming pool, I suppose I am that person. But I am going to vote for the swimming pool because it is for the children. Mr. Phelps and I moved to Howells when the town was one year old. During the 67 years that have passed, I have been privileged to watch Howells develop from a little prairie settlement into a prosperous community with beautiful homes and fine business places. This change did not come about by magic. It occurred because three generations of Howells people had great faith in the future. I hope the pioneer spirit of progress and brotherly love is still guiding the destiny of Howells."

Beaver City was another of the state's small communities making a decision at the polls Tuesday on building a pool, but unlike Howells Beaver City gave emphatic approval to the project by a vote of 232 to 95. E. L. Cline, Times-Tribune editor had devoted two editorial columns to a practical discussion of the matters. He spoke of lives that had been lost for want of such a supervised recreation, and broke the cost down into easy-to-understand, everyday terms.

"The cost to the House of Cline for its share in the swimming pool will be $1.02. We have three children who nagged the life out of us last summer to take them swimming. Arapahoe has the closest pool and it took two gallons of gas to get to Arapahoe and back. Let's say, two bits, and total expense of the trip, 85 cents, not counting wear and tear on the car. That is for one trip, and being a father of persistent daughters, believe me, we made more than one trip.

"Another item of comparative expense... The average smoker will smoke 30 cartons in a year and this amounts to $64.50 annually... so the average smoker will put out as much money in one year for cigarettes as the average taxpaying family will spend in 20 years to buy themselves a modern swimming pool for their community."

Small towns are friendly helpful places to live, and no one appreciates this fully until a time of need. A Fillmore County News writer told of moving to Exeter and the dismal prospect of a cold supper in a chilly, disorderly house.

"Pans not unpacked, range not connected, and the family starved after lugging furniture and boxes all day. I'll never forget a good neighbor who came in with several hot dishes that chilly fall day. When I tried to thank her, she said, 'Pass it on'... The policy of the good neighbor is expressed more fully in rural America than anywhere else."

Gale Rowe of the Madison Star expressed the same feeling in his story of a man who moved back to a small town after living in the city.

"Seems he was very disturbed after a neighbor had died and only two people called at the home... the undertaker and someone who wanted to rent the house."

Harrison Sun Editor George Clarke reported on the oil-drilling progress in and around Kimball. The appearance of oil well pumps out on the wheat fields, he described as "almost ridiculous. They appear to be giant grasshoppers eternally bobbing their heads to the ground."

He noticed something else, too—the apparent feeling of wheat farmers that the wells are not a permanent fixture on the landscape.

"They continue to plant as close to the pumps and tanks as they dare. After all, they can always plant wheat."

A British Newsmen Looks At U.S.

Editor's note: A veteran Washington correspondent Alastair Buchan returning home to Britain sees the United States on the verge of a technological revolution and finished with its emotional post Korea phase. The Republican party, he believes, can become the symbol of empirical reform or can go back to the wilderness of Hooverism.

WASHINGTON.

The Americans, so they tell you themselves, are a volatile people, quick to feel and to register the extremes of national optimism and despair.

This I have always tended to discount, feeling that Americans are inclined to do less than justice to their own capacity for political courage and consistency, and to confuse an articulate public opinion with an irresponsible one.

Bold and fumbling leadership, calm good sense and international truculence, gnawing fear of ghosts within the body political and robust calm when confronted with real problems, a near slump and high prosperity—the last four years have produced examples of all these.

In my brief span in Washington, I have had to report the growth of the black cloud of McCarthyism until it cast its shadow not only across American politics and policy, but across the intimacies of private life as well, and yet also to record Senator McCarthy's complete deflation.

There have been two Presidents in the White House of totally dissimilar temperaments—Mr. Truman, who for his courage and ability to meet the challenge of his times is, in my opinion at least to be rated as one of the greatest of his country's leaders, and Mr.

A Good Story

Lincoln, Neb. To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I read with great interest the November 20 story on the Nebraska public power system and the controversies within it. This was the clearest presentation of the issues that I have seen. The story is of great service to the state and the newspaper deserves a lot of credit for getting it out.

Need Of A Job

Lincoln, Neb. To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Should married women take jobs from single women? When women reach the late forties, some employers think they are too old to work. What do people expect older women to do? They walk miles every day trying to find work. All they are told is, "No work today." Laundries, hotels and cafes are all much alike. They don't want to hire middle-aged women.

Someone should consider employment for the older women. What do the readers of The Star think about it? I would like to know. Women in their late forties and over need work as much as anyone else if they are to keep alive. It is no fun walking day after day, week after week, hunting work in cold weather.

Newsprint Move Said 'Bad Relations'

NEW YORK (INS) — Rep. Art G. Klein (D-N.Y.) described as "at best pretty poor public relations" an indirect Canadian proposal for price discrimination against American buyers of Quebec newsprint.

Prime Minister Maurice Duplessis of Quebec had told the legislative assembly the Quebec newsprint producers should give newspapers in the province "special treatment" on prices.

Duplessis added that what the Quebec producers charge "elsewhere" is "their own business."

American newspapers purchase a large amount of Canadian newsprint, the price of which has been raised $3 to $5 a ton in recent months.

Klein, chairman of a House subcommittee which has been investigating the general newsprint situation, said:

How Can They?

"I don't see how they can discriminate against either Canadian or American publishers in favor of those in the Quebec area.

"If such a move is carried out I would say that the only recourse to the American publisher would be to stimulate our own national pulp production to a point where we are no longer dependent on Canadian pulp."

Duplessis also warned the Quebec newsprint producers that he would seek government controls on the industry unless the producers adopted a policy of preferential price treatment for Quebec publishers.

U.S. Best Client

"American publishers take the majority of Canadian newsprint on the market. Price discrimination against their best client would be rather a shortsighted formula for Canada to adopt."

(In Washington, Rep. Clarence Brown (R-O.) a newspaper publisher himself, said:

"Prime Minister Duplessis' statement is most interesting. In my opinion his approach to the whole problem is very shortsighted and may in the end react in a detrimental way to the best interests of both the U.S. and Canada.

"To have an official of either Canada or the U.S. take such a selfish attitude as that which is indicated by Prime Minister Duplessis' statement is indeed regrettable.")

Taylor New Head Of York Chamber

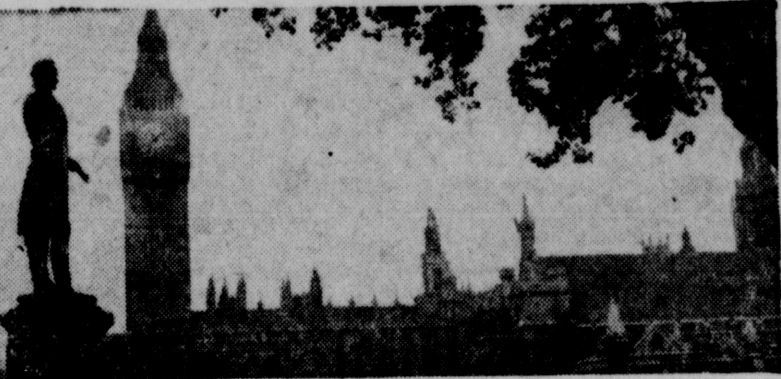

YORK—Earl Taylor is the new president of the York Chamber of Commerce. He succeeds Miles Hildebrand.

Other new officers elected were: Neal Gallant, first vice-president; Howard May, second vice president; and Walter Kupke, secretary treasurer.

The new officers will be officially installed at the annual chamber meeting in January but assume their new duties Dec. 1.

New board members have also been elected. They are: Willis Stover, Del Kuntzelman, Pete Frandsen, Gene Osborn and Don Hylton. Hold-over directors are Neal Gallant, Paul Geis, G. A. Hartman, Walter Kupke, Howard May, Hollis Miller, Rod Monismith, John Strand, Everett Towle and Charles Young.

Lady Editor Succeeds In Nebraska's 'Wild West' Panhandle

OWNS, OPERATES PAPER

Six years ago Mrs. Reva Evans became owner and editor of the Gordon Journal.

"At first, perhaps, there was some condescension, an attitude of waiting to see how long I'd last in a man's world. That all has gradually disappeared," Mrs. Evans once said of her entry into the newspaper business.

But since the day Mrs. Evans accepted the editorship of the Journal, many honors have come her way to show that she has been successful in the position, despite her sex.

The latest of these honors came this week when she was named Editor of the Week by the Publishers' Auxiliary.

Mrs. Evans was born at Cody, Neb., and attended school at Valentine. After graduation from high school, she entered the School of Journalism at the University of Nebraska.

However, she had had no practical experience on a newspaper when she became editor of the Gordon Journal. Her husband was injured in an accident, and Mrs. Evans found it necessary to support the family.

Six weeks after she took the job, the new owners asked her if she would like to buy the business. She did, and has been busy working in almost every phase of newspapering since.

Mrs. Evans edits, proof reads, writes most of the front page stories, covers meetings, keeps books, writes a weekly column, and supervises the rest of her staff.

Mrs. Evans has said that her main interest is promotion of Gordon, the center of a diversified area. It is surrounded by ranch country, rich wheatlands, and the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation.

The Journal has been a leader in successful campaigns to build a new elementary school building and to effect a change to the city manager type of municipal government.

Prior to being named Editor of the Week, Mrs. Evans was chosen Gordon's Woman of the Year in 1951, and in 1953 the National Federation of Press Women presented her with a second place award in newspapers edited by women.

The Journal received first places in five divisions of the 1955 Nebraska Women's Press Club contest. They were for a newspaper edited by a woman, special edition, editorial, column and news story in a weekly paper.

Mrs. Evans success is especially outstanding in view of a statement she made in 1951, on the second anniversary of the day she became editor:

"No one will ever know the feeling of inadequacy that was mine when the cloak of the former editors settled conclusively on my shoulders. For they were men of recognized abilities and influences."

"One became governor of the state (Dwight Griswold), another a legislator and colonel in the army (Joe Leedom Sr.). It was presumptuous that I—a woman—should essay to take up the torch passed on by them."

Mrs. Evans has a daughter, Susanne, who attends the University of Nebraska, and a son, Morris Philip, who attends junior high at Gordon.

SHOTGUN BLAST KILLS OMAHAN

OMAHA (U)—Edith Buckman, about 30, was killed by a single shotgun blast Thursday and police held several persons for questioning in an attempt to learn what led up to the shooting.

Detectives William Coleman and C. C. Dudley said Collins Bradford, 45, told them he fired the shot but that he was not aiming at anyone. The officers said Bradford told them the victim stepped into the line of fire just as the weapon went off.

Police and the County Attorney's office were questioning Bradford and others Thursday.

Nebraska City Armory Work To Begin Monday

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb.—Work will begin Monday on the new Nebraska City National Guard armory, the Lincoln firm of Wescott of Bowen has announced.

The building was staked out with Mayor Victor Bremmer and Joe Gangel, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Armory Committee among those in attendance.

Bernard Harpster of Nebraska City will superintend construction.

Omaha Trio Home; Thanks To Air Guard

OMAHA (U)—Thanks to the Air National Guard, three young Omaha men are home for Thanksgiving.

It would have been difficult for the three to make the trip otherwise. Each suffered similar paralyzing spinal injuries in separate accidents and have been patients at Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn.

They are Howard Shoenigh, 20, Alfred Acoma Jr., 20, and Louis Dreier, 21. Diving accidents sent Drier and Shoenigh to the hospital. Acoma was injured in a sandlot football game.

Drier's brother-in-law is National Guard Capt. Joe Jelinek and it was he who arranged the flight. He cleared with Air Guard officials in Lincoln and obtained permission from Governor Anderson.

Said Shoenigh, who must return to Rochester Monday: "This is going to be my best Thanksgiving."

Holiday Spirit Allows Speeder To Keep Date

OMAHA, Neb.—A 16-year-old speeder kept his Thanksgiving Eve date thanks to the holiday spirit of County Judge Robert R. Troyer.

Judge Troyer placed Joseph D. Badami on probation one year, ordered him to write a theme on traffic laws and ordered him to leave his driver's license with the probation officer one month.

But young Badami exclaimed he had a Wednesday night date for a formal dance, "corsage and everything." Would it be possible he asked, to keep his license until after the dance?

Replied Judge Troyer; all right. We'll take a chance on you."

N.P. Church 75th Year Is Observed

NORTH PLATTE, Neb.—The First Evangelical Lutheran Church of North Platte has observed its 75th anniversary.

The observance was marked by the return of three of the church's past pastors.

They were the Rev. C. Franklin Kock, D. D., of New York, who served the church from 1917-1924; the Rev. H. A. Anspach, D. D., of Los Angeles, who was pastor from 1924 to 1930, and the Rev. John Rupley of Boulder, Colo., 1947-54.

Three North Platte residents were recognized as the only living direct descendants of the original 17 charter members of the church. They were Mrs. Ada (Kocken) Turpie, Miss Margaret Kocken and Fred Erickson.

ESCAPE FROM NOWHERE

This unusual-looking steel skeleton, towers five stories and 52 feet above the Fairbury, Neb., landscape. Passersby might be hard put to figure out just what it is. The answer: a fire escape with the building left off. It was built of steel for firemen to use in rescue and ladder work training. Fire Chief George Maclay said the tower will be a valuable training aid to familiarize firemen with handling hoses and ladders in aerial work. One side of the tower has openings shaped to represent doorways and windows. (Star Staff Photo.)

FORLORN 'DUMPY' ENDS HER LONG WAIT FOR FOOTSTEPS

OMAHA (U)—"Dumpy" is gone from under the "no dumping" sign where somebody dumped her.

The plight of the glum pup came to light after she had been under that sign for four days, head always at the alert for the footsteps of a known one.

She wouldn't heed the coaxing of residents who named her, to leave her spot under the sign at the entrance to a county sewage disposal plant.

But when Humane Society

Supt. Gary Frazell went out to get her there was no "Dumpy." Gary met only a woman who like himself wanted to see the pup in a home. Both agreed "somebody beat us out here and picked her up."

Kansas-Nebraska Gas Company Picks Butler

HASTINGS, Neb. (U)—Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co., Hastings Wednesday named Patrick Butler of St. Paul, Minn., director of the firm.

Legion Names 4 From State To National Groups

Four members of the American Legion in Nebraska have been given appointments to national committees of the organization, it was announced by John E. Curtiss of Lincoln, national executive committeeman from Nebraska.

Associate Justice Edward F. Carter of the Nebraska Supreme Court was named again as vice chairman of the national Boys' State Committee. Judge Carter, president of the Cornhusker Boys' State, served on this national committee for a number of years.

James F. Green of Omaha was given an appointment as vice chairman of the Americanism Commission. He had served during the past year as vice chairman of the constitution and by-laws committee.

Joseph F. Baldauf of Rushville was given a three-year term on the national Rehabilitation Commission, the second such term he has been given.

Randall C. Birt of Bellevue was also given a three-year term on the national Child Welfare Commission, on which group he has served for a number of years.

'Panhandle's Rich Indian History Just Being Discovered'

... Davis Tells Archeologists

E. Mott Davis, assistant professor of anthropology at the University of Nebraska, discussed "the rich Indian history we have just begun to discover" in archeological field trips in the Nebraska panhandle in his report at the opening session of the 13th annual Plains Conference for Archeology.

The Conference opened Thursday afternoon at the University and will run through Saturday. Some 50 persons are on hand for the meetings.

Davis explained last summer's field trips by the U. of N. Department of Anthropology. The trips were made to conduct tests of future digging sites.

Profitable
It was a very profitable summer, Davis said, and showed evidences of prehistoric existence in the area as far back as 2000 B.C. and probably way before that. There are remains in the area, he said, clear up through recent historic times.

According to Davis, it is uncertain when the panhandle trips will be resumed. There is a pressing need, he pointed out, to get into Missouri River basin dam sites before the sites are destroyed.

This basin work may delay the Nebraska project for some time.

Recent work of the University of Nebraska State Museum was discussed by Franklin Fenega. Chairman of the meeting is John M. Corbett of the National Park Service.

Marvin F. Kivett and Roger T. Grange, Jr., both from the Nebraska State Historical Society, discussed field work done at the Fort Randall Reservoir area in South Dakota.

Others taking part in the program were Reynold J. Ruppe, Jr., State University of Iowa; Alfred E. Johnson, University of Kansas; Richard P. Wheeler, Smithsonian Institution; Wesley R. Hurt, Jr., University of South Dakota; Alan

Curtis Plan On Unions Is Vetoed

... No Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) Thursday turned down a suggestion that the Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee investigate the alleged misuse of labor union dues in political campaigns.

Sen. Curtis (R-Neb) had asked Hennings whether it was feasible for the subcommittee, which Hennings heads, to look into the subject. He said it is charged that dues are sometimes put to political use contrary to the wishes of some union members.

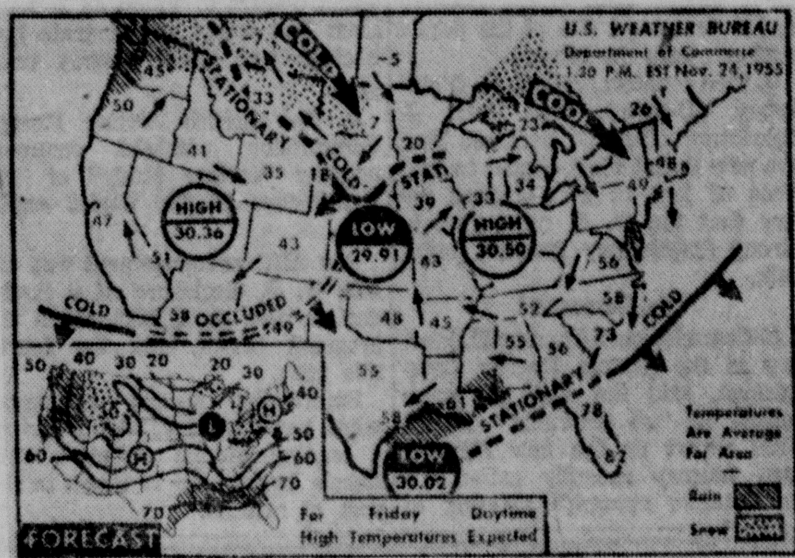

Replying, Hennings wrote Curtis:

"I agree with you that the problems raised in your letter are of serious import. Under the rules governing the procedure of our subcommittee and our established plan of operation, however, I do not believe that the subject matter is one which we can properly go into at this time."

Hennings explained that the subcommittee had adopted a policy of not concerning itself with "problems capable of full solution in due course by the courts."

He said he understood "that the precise question which is raised in your inquiry is presently before the courts in a case involving alleged violation of the political contributions and expenditure provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act which has been brought against the United Automobile Workers of America, CIO."

Curtis had written Hennings that he understood certain union members wanted to testify about "being required to pay dues and other assessments" for the support of political parties and candidates not of their own choosing.

PICKER CUTS OFF 4 FINGERS

... At Big Springs

BIG SPRINGS, Neb. —Elbert Berry, farmer living southeast of Big Springs lost all four fingers on his right hand in a corn picker accident on his farm.

When his hand became caught in the picker, he braced himself to prevent the entire arm from being pulled into the machine.

After the machine had chewed off the fingers and he was able to free himself, he walked a half-mile to his home, then telephoned a neighbor, Ivan Beal, who took him to a hospital at Julesburg, Colo.

The picker accident was the second this month at Big Springs. John Jurgenson suffered severe injury to his left hand in a corn picker accident Nov. 7.

Designer Of First A-Bomb Says New Blast In Russia Is Warning To U.S.

WASHINGTON (INS) — The man who directed development of the first atomic bomb declared Thursday Russia's super hydrogen blast emphasizes that "some way" must be found to avoid nuclear war.

Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, retired, said this is a "valid moment" to announce that the U.S. is "ready to discuss anything relative to the safeguarding of the world against nuclear dangers by the experimental or all-out war."

The general said such an announcement should be made through the United Nations.

Groves was director of the famous "Manhattan Project" which produced the first atomic bomb in 1945. His statement was made in commenting on the Atomic Energy Commission's disclosure that Russia recently shot off the largest "blast" thus far in the Soviet buildup of atomic weapons.

Quite Clear

He declared: "All this means is what was quite clear to some of us in 1945 that, with the advent of nuclear warfare, we most certainly have got to find some way of insuring peace."

"These developments by Russia of H-bombs comparable to those of the Allies was a natural progression and certainly something to be expected. It does, and I repeat, only emphasize the all-important fact that we cannot have another war."

Meanwhile, other developments included:

1. Dr. Hironobu Watanabe of Niigata University in Japan said the big Russian explosion apparently occurred last Friday or Saturday. He reported an abnormal increase of radioactivity in recent rains over his homeland. Another Japanese scientist reported a sharp increase in radioactive dust in the air last Monday and Tuesday. Japan lies closer than any other major free world country to the presumed site of the Soviet nuclear tests in Siberia.

2. Two senators, Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), and John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.), declared that the new Soviet blast—equal to millions of tons of TNT—serves notice that the U. S. must remain strong despite any Russian peace talk.

'No Comment'

3. Commissioner Thomas E. Murray of the Atomic Energy Commission, said the AEC is committed to "no comment" on its brief report on the new Russian test. Murray recently called for an "atomic summit" meeting of world powers to watch an H-bomb blast that would demonstrate how nuclear war could destroy mankind.

4. The British Atomic Energy Commission withheld comment pending "further study" of the significance of the Soviet explosion.

The AEC announcement was the 10th U. S. disclosure of a Soviet nuclear test since 1949, when the program began, and the fourth this year.

Before the official announcement, however, Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, a leading atomic scientist, said Russia had set off 12 blasts in the past 13 months.

Five-Month Survey Of Fairbury Begins

FAIRBURY, Neb. — The board of directors of the Fairbury Industrial Development Corporation are in hopes that information gathered during a five-month survey of the city will help them sell their town to prospective businesses and to correct any shortcomings discovered.

The board hired the Fantus Area Research Corporation to conduct the survey and report and make recommendations on their findings. The survey, to cover all aspects of the city, began this week. It will include a study of tax rates, government population statistics and trends, living costs, utilities, transportation and even the terrain.

Recommendations will then be made to the board on how to go about correcting any deficiencies and also what types of industries would most benefit by selecting Fairbury as a manufacturing or distribution point.

The Fairbury Development Corporation was organized four years ago for the purpose of obtaining new businesses for the city.

Fund Drive, Bond Issue Planned For New Hospital At Tecumseh

TECUMSEH, Neb.—The ground-work for obtaining a new hospital at Tecumseh has been laid. The Johnson County hospital committee at a meeting here unanimously adopted a resolution calling for the raising of $30,000 by Tecumseh businessmen towards the new hospital. Balance of the funds needed would be obtained through a bond issue and from federal funds. County residents will vote on the bond question soon.

Don Gorton of Tecumseh was named chairman of the committee. Other officers are the Reverend E. O. Mueller of Maple Grove, vice chairman; Mrs. James Larimore of Vesta, secretary and Lewis Miner of Lincoln precinct, treasurer. Dr. William J. Higgins of Tecumseh was named chairman of the publicity committee.

First of several events planned to help raise funds is an essay contest for students in the county. Entitled "Why Johnson County Needs a Hospital". Cash prizes totaling $135 will be given entrants.

An 18-member executive committee will continue the preliminary work of getting the hospital drive started. The city has been without a hospital since the recent closing of the Lanspa Hospital by Dr. Lanspa for reasons of health.

Hog Day Planned At Odell On Dec. 3

ODELL, Neb. — Businessmen here will go into the "hog" business Saturday, Dec. 3 when the Commercial Club sponsors a Hog Day. Farmers wishing to sell hogs will bring them to town for the event, which will begin with a hog calling contest. Farmers are limited to one hog each and merchants will buy the hogs later in the day, paying three dollars above market price of the day previous.

About 25 of the farmers registering will have a chance at having their names drawn for the sale. Animals purchased by the merchants will be eaten at a "pork" banquet for businessmen and farmers to be held later. Hogs should weigh between 200 and 240 pounds, according to Commercial Club president, Mel Briant.

Mrs. Addie Miller Dies At Age 90

Mrs. Addie L. Miller, 90, of 4435 Greenwood, died Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Grace Kumpf, 548 No. 24th.

Born in Cedarville, Ill., at the age of seven Mrs. Miller came to Nebraska with her family which settled five miles northwest of what is now David City.

Mrs. Miller moved to Lincoln in 1925 and lived at the Greenwood address since 1931. She was a member of the Methodist Church. Survivors, besides Mrs. Kumpf, are three other daughters, Mrs. Nettie B. Avery of McCook, Mrs. Charles A. Scudder of Riverside, Calif., and Mrs. Guy Ives of Washington, D. C.; two sons, Roy D. Miller of Columbus and Carroll H. Miller of Fort Collins, Colo.; six grandchildren, 10 great grandchildren and two great-great grandchildren.

Catholic Bishops Answered:
Hollywood Fires Rebuttal At Critics

By EMILY BELSER
HOLLYWOOD (INS) — The crusade of American Catholic Bishops against a so-called "rising tide of moral laxity in movies" has caused some ruffled feeling in Hollywood. But by and large, studio executives, most of whom preferred to remain anonymous, took the latest blast against what was termed an increase in "morally objectionable" films in stride.

Dore Schary, film executive and MGM executive vice president, flatly declared he does not believe there has been a "rising tide of laxity" in films and added:

"Certainly, the Catholic Bishops have a right to engage in any crusade they wish to engage in. I only hope they give us the same freedom of expression — to make the motion pictures we want to make."

The national Catholic Welfare Conference announced that the hierarchy intends to "correct the apathy of many people and arouse Catholics to vigorous protest over the increase in objectionable films."

But the academy-award winning writer and producer pointed out that Hollywood is merely making "more mature" movies because the public has grown up and is demanding less elementary fare.

"We must go on making the pictures that audiences want," he said. "Sometimes we'll be right and sometimes we'll be wrong, but people are more selective today and their taste is improving all the time."

Schary said the movie industry "must face and fight" the pressure groups.

"I don't mind criticism," he added "but I abhor censorship. When people connected with the motion picture business feel a film has been unjustly criticized, then they should fight."

"But first they should make certain there is no justification for criticism."

George Murphy, unofficial actor-spokesman for the film industry, charged that "unfortunately" there are a few people in Hollywood who give the town a "black eye."

"But they are in a small minority," he added. "Hollywood has a record of self-regulation as good as any industry or any group of people working together anywhere."

"A lot of the major producers are conscious of this and are careful to court good will and public acceptance."

Murphy said he believes the Bishops' accusation stems not so much from a wish to denounce the film industry as a desire to get the black sheep back in line again.

"From time to time," Murphy said, "certain people start taking a few liberties and when they do they have to be jacked up. Most of them are independent producers who flood the country with fly-by-night movies."

"But Hollywood has many responsible leaders who are constantly trying to do a good, honest, moral job."

Harriman Urges
90 Pct. Supports

LEWISTON, Idaho (P) — New York's Democratic governor, Averell Harriman, advocated the restoring of 90 per cent farm price supports and said this nation's crop surpluses are a valuable asset "in the world struggle against communism."

Harriman, often mentioned as a potential candidate for the party's presidential nomination, declared in a speech prepared for an Idaho Democrats' dinner:

"One of the greatest weapons we have in the cold war is our abundance of food, particularly wheat. Today's stockpile is a strategic reserve in the world struggle against communism."

The New York governor, who commented that, "I am no a formal candidate for president at this time," criticized Republican farm policies and advocated a federal high dam at Hells Canyon—the latter a hot issue in the Northwest.

Big Job In Little Time

Thanks to the help of 22 business education students at Peru State Teachers College, the annual mailing of Nemaha County Tuberculosis Association Christmas seals was completed in less than five hours, record time. The students, under the direction of Miss Hazel Weare, addressed, stuffed and sealed over 3,000 envelopes. Student volunteers busy at the task are (from left) Harold Christy of Brock; Garnett Brown of Nebraska City; Verdel Goldberg of Essex Ia.; Suzanne London of Shenandoah, Ia.; and Ruth Hansen of Dorchester. Mrs. Everett Good of Peru is Nemaha County seal chairman.

Weather Blamed

SEOUL (INS) The United Nations Command told the Communists that bad weather caused the November 7th air crash which killed three Red Polish truce inspectors and an American pilot near Kunsan in South Korea. Results of an investigation of the "regrettable accident" were reported by Rear Adm. Walter E. Moore, chief Allied armistice commissioner, to Albert Norski, senior Polish delegate to the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission.

Swedish Teachers See Funk
School Despite Their 'Vow'

FUNK, Neb. — Even teachers, There are not too many differences, Miss Klera said, between the schools of the U.S. and Sweden. She has taught for 11 years.

The pair did feel that schools here slight one important subject—world history. "To us it is the background for understanding the whole world, and we spend years studying it."

Another difference they noted was the length of time a student studies with the same teacher. In Sweden the same teacher keeps her students for three years before turning them over to another for more advanced studies.

POSTCARD

Italy is no country for anyone on a diet. The spaghetti, fettuccine, ravioli, tagliarini or caneloni will get you if you don't watch out.

I ate well riding the CIAT bus (three days for $16, Rome to Nice, France).

The problem is finding the place to eat. Ask the hotel concierge and you always land in something expensive and dull with an "American Bar."

In Florence the concierge gave me three places.

"I've been there," I said. A cold lie since I had never been in Florence.

"Well," he said, doubtfully, "then you should go to Paoli on the Via Tavolini. But mostly Italians eat there."

Americans eat there, too. But maybe less than in the "American Bar." It turned out to be a wonderfully good restaurant, tiled and arched with paintings on the wall.

The maitre d'hotel was Mr. Dorini, short and white-haired and efficient. He learned English with an American accent as an interpreter for the Fifth Army.

"First a martini, very dry," he said. "You are a connoisseur."

Well, it is nice to hear. Though actually he probably said to himself: "Here's a square kid if I ever saw one. Get out the gin."

He mixed it himself at the table. He said the specialty was scampi alla marinara. And shortly thereafter he brought a chafing dish full of medium-size prawns. They had been simmered in white wine with a little garlic, red pepper and I think, oregano.

He put this on a bed of fluffy rice. It was just a little pepper-hot and would make a fortune in the Texas border country. He opened a half bottle of chilled Ciclop white wine from Sicily.

The scampi had led a sheltered life. They never had to do homework. Or get a loan from the bank. Or show up at the office at 8 o'clock. Consequently they were the tenderest I have ever tasted. With a green chicory salad, dressed with oil and vinegar on the side. It was wonderful.

In Genoa, the concierge ran through the high-priced restaurant list again and finally, in despair, sent me to Alfredo's "Il Cuccolo" in the Via Fiume.

Il Cuccolo was another fine restaurant with starched Italian waiters and gleaming silver.

They recommended the pheasant which was served in a sauce with mounds of thin-flaked brown truffles on top. They served a green salad alongside and finally a slice of creamy Gorgonzola with bread and butter and the bitter, black Italian coffee.

It was raining again in the morning when I checked out of the Hotel Savoia and I couldn't raise an appetite for lunch at a little fishing village on the Italian Riviera.

So I walked down by the sea and threw stones. Until it occurred to me that it might upset the tender scampi.

I had two hours to spare in Nice and spent it on the terrace of the Royale Hotel, listening to the orchestra play French songs. And at 7, went to the station and told the porter to get my bags from the checkroom and put them on the Train Bleu, car 4, berth 7.

The Train Bleu, the crack night train to Paris, pulled in at 7:30 and blew the departing whistle at 7:35. No porter, no baggage.

I was about to give up when the porter came panting down the platform.

"Get on! Get on!" he cried.

He began throwing baggage through the open window. The train was starting to pick up speed. He threw the final flight bag through the window and I flung out 200 francs.

"Au 'voir!" he yelled. "I thought you said car 7, berth 4."

The Blue Train roared off into the night and the train porter said "tch, tch." He seemed quite upset. He had nothing on me.

Improvement Of Salk Shots Said Reason For Experiments

DETROIT (AP) — A leading drug manufacturer reports that Salk polio vaccine is safe beyond any doubt but that efforts now are being made to develop a vaccine that will be more effective against the disease.

Harry J. Loynd, president of Parke Davis & Co., commented on Washington reports that his company was using ultra-violet rays as a step in making the Salk vaccine safer.

"Safety of the Salk vaccine was proven long ago," Loynd said, "and government standards of its manufacture were established accordingly. It is impossible for Parke Davis or any other company to develop a product that is safer than Salk."

"The fact of the matter is that Parke Davis, like other manufacturers, is continually trying to develop polio vaccine that is more effective and just as safe."

Loynd declined to confirm or deny that the ultraviolet ray method is being tried in the development of a new type of vaccine.

Plainview Man To Head U.S. 20 State Association

OSMOND, Neb. (AP) — E. G. Dickinson, Plainview business man, has been elected to replace Dr. G. E. Peters of Randolph as president of the Nebraska Highway 20 association.

The annual meeting was attended by 34 delegates from nine towns between South Sioux City, Neb., and O'Neill, Neb.

Ernie Voss, McLean, was elected secretary of the organization and Earl Roe, Plainview, was re-elected treasurer.

Uranium Prospector Home From Utah, But Anxious To Go Back

By ELLIS RALL
Star Staff Writer

After just shy of seven months in the wild country of the south-west and after 17,200 miles of rough traveling searching for uranium funds, John W. Krajewski of 5201 Greenwood is glad to get back to a soft bed and home cooking.

But he is also anxious to resume the search early next spring when the weather moderates.

Krajewski, in the comfort of his home, explained that although no rich uranium deposits were discovered during the venture the trip was not unsuccessful.

Exploring for the Lincoln Exploration Company, a group of 40 Lincolnites interested in finding uranium, Krajewski said several claims were filed, some of which assayed .04 to .06 of one per cent uranium. Commercial ore is .10 of one per cent.

In all, around 940 acres have been claimed in Utah and Colorado. Thirty-two of the claims are filed in three Utah counties and the group has 300 acres in Eagle County, Colo., as a result of the field trip.

They have two years in which to begin mining operations before the claims expire. Krajewski said he hopes to trace some of the deposits back to find commercial ore before actual mining operations will be undertaken.

So far, he said, the members of the company "are well satisfied" with the results of the summer and fall exploration. Valuable experience and contacts were made on the trip, he added.

Next spring he hopes to hit places missed on the last trip. This includes some prospecting in western Nebraska. "Nosing" around the western end of the state may turn up something, he explained.

On the past trip Krajewski searched particularly for three known uranium-bearing rock formations, all of which are older in age than outcrops found in the state and which should lie beneath the formations exposed in Nebraska.

These formations, found principally in the 20 acre claims north of Moab, Utah are the Morrison formation of the Jurassic geological age and the Schinley and Schinley conglomerate formations. Outcrops in the state are generally of the later Tertiary and Pleistocene geological ages.

Krajewski said his more than $3,000 worth of exploration equipment and his numerous samples will be part of a uranium display which will be set up in the University of Nebraska Museum this winter.

Dailey Reading
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Dan Dailey sat up in his hospital bed, reading scripts, while under treatment for a neck injury suffered in a fall from a horse last Sunday.

It was first reported he had suffered a fracture of a vertebra but his doctor said there "probably is none, it is not definite." The 39-year-old actor should be able to go home within a week.

Fuel Exhausted?
SUFFOLK, Va. (AP)—A motorist, out of gas here, asked a passing driver for directions to the nearest filling station. The passing driver—a policeman in a patrol car—pointed to one on the hill. The motorist started walking toward it. Before he reached it he was overhauled by the cop, who noted that the gasless car contained 15 five-gallon jars of illegal whisky.

6 Million Boost
TOKYO, (Friday) (AP)—The newspaper 'Asahi' estimated Japan's population as of October this year to be 89,283,823 or nearly six million more than five years ago. Asahi based its estimate on local census returns still untabulated by the national government.

In This Order
WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Parking Assn., trying to figure out where best to locate parking facilities, has conducted a survey to determine which businesses bring the most motorists downtown.

It rated the attractions to parking customers in this order: department stores, doctors-dentists buildings, specially shops in groups, leading hotels, first-run or large theaters, popular restaurants and rail and bus terminals.

Bohart Heads Game Commission Project
The State Game Commission announced Charles Bohart, formerly land manager for the North Platte district, has been named habitat restoration project leader.

He will succeed Wade Hamor, who resigned to take a position with the Soil Conservation Service as state conservationist at Bismark, N. D.

The change is effective Jan. 1.

Rugged Utah Country
This is the type of rugged Utah country in which John W. Krajewski of Lincoln spent seven months searching for uranium. His explorations resulted in the filing of 32 claims in this type of country. Much of the ore assayed .04 to .06 of one per cent, just under the .10 of one per cent which evaluates the ore as commercial grade.

Secret Attempt
NEW YORK (INS)—"The Reporter" magazine said that Tammany leader Carmine De Sapio made a secret but unsuccessful attempt to enlist the support of Texas Gov. Allan Shivers for Gov. Averell Harriman as a Democratic presidential candidate.

The magazine in a copyrighted article tells of an elaborately secret conference set up by De Sapio with Democratic state chairman George Sandlin last spring.

Plane Sold
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A Wyoming oil refiner has bought the airplane which wealthy Barbara Hutton gave playboy-diplomat Porfiro Rubirosa, for a present before their marriage.

J. D. Reed, Houston aircraft dealer, said that he sold the twin-engine transport to Ed Neilson, president of the Husky Refinery, Cody, Wyo., for $150,000. Reed had bought the plane from Rubirosa several months ago.

Rep. Walter Gets On Harriman's Campaign Wagon

WASHINGTON (INS)—Rep. Francis E. Walter, a bitter political foe of Adlai E. Stevenson, announced Thursday he is supporting New York Gov. Averell Harriman for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Pennsylvania Democrat said Harriman "is the only presidential candidate in the United States who has a true appreciation of the number one problem confronting the nation today—the threat to our security by the Russians who are intent on world domination."

Walter told newsmen he expects to go to the 1956 Democratic convention in Chicago as a Harriman delegate.

With his announcement, Walter became the first important Democratic congressional leader to climb aboard the Harriman bandwagon.

Walter is chairman of the House un-American Activities Committee, the Immigration subcommittee, and the Democratic Patronage Committee.

Guests From Evanston

The wee small hours of Thanksgiving morning brought week-end guests to the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Schaumburg. The guest threesome included Mr. and Mrs. Schaumburg's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray W. Schaumburg, and Brian Rice of Wimbledon, England, who is a student at Seabury Western Theological Seminary where Mr. Schaumburg also is a student. Mr. Rice, by the way, is a graduate of Peterhouse College, Cambridge University, England.

May Pershing's Pin Is Presented

Miss Claire Hinman, president of the active chapter of Delta Delta on the University of Nebraska campus presided at a ceremony Monday evening at the sorority's Founders Day celebration when she presented the Tri-Delta pin of the late Miss May Pershing to Miss Vivian Lemmer of Atkinson, who as chaplain of the active chapter, will wear the pin during her term of office. The pin, which is set with three diamonds, was willed to the chapter by Miss Pershing.

And Now To Christmas

FROM now on all roads lead to the Christmas holidays—with more guests, more parties—more everything, including plenty of excitement—And speaking of Christmas reminds us that invitations went out last evening for the traditional Delta Gamma Pilgrimage which this year will take place on Tuesday, Dec. 13.

The Pilgrimage homes, which will be decked in their Christmas best, will include those of Mrs. Ellery Hall Davis, Mrs.

The Brides' Book Says:

For her marriage to A. 2c Leo A. Porter of Hayes Center, which will take place Saturday evening at East Lincoln Christian Church, Miss Onita Newman will have as her maid of honor her sister, Miss Betty Newman.

The bridesmaids will be Miss Sharon Smally of Los Angeles, Calif., Miss Jody Robinson of San Francisco, Mrs. Robert L. Wilson and Mrs. Roger Sharp. Miss Cynthia Watts will be the flower girl.

Gene Wilson will serve Mr. Porter as best man, and the ushers will be Allen Alexander of Buffalo, N. Y., Richard Cramer of Pennsylvania, Lawrence J. West and Grover L. Schubert.

A December bride-elect is Miss Barbara Pedersen, who will become the bride of William F. Seacrest on Sunday, Dec. 18. The 2 o'clock afternoon ceremony will be solemnized at Redeemer Lutheran Church.

Miss Pedersen will have as her matron of honor and only attendant her twin sister, Mrs. Duane Ertzner of Omaha.

Carl Olson, Mrs. Duncan Sowles, Mrs. James H. Carrier and Mrs. Donald C. North, all Delta Gamma alumnae. The Pilgrimage hours, incidentally, are from 1 o'clock until 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

THE Holiday season also is a reminder of New Year's Eve which in turn brings us to the party of a brand new dancing club—The Gay Nighters—which will have its first party on New Year's Eve at Hotel Lincoln.

Serving as best man will be James Ludick, and seating the guests will be Robert Hiltner and Pete Pedersen, brother of the bride-to-be.

Honoring another December bride-elect this week was Mrs. Don Ward who entertained at her home Tuesday evening in courtesy to Miss Jean Jensen, whose marriage to Bill E. Hollon of Middletown, O., will be an event of Saturday, Dec. 10.

Fourteen guests were invited for an informal evening

The idea of the Gay Nighters originated with 10 couples—Mr. and Mrs. William Cartmell, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Eames Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gessner, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Berkshire, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Etmund, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Philipps, Mr. and Mrs. Burkett Van Kirk and Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson. The club now has expanded to 30 couples—and the organization will get off to a merry start on New Year's Eve.

BUT the reflection of Thanksgiving still is with us, and why not? It still is very close—and its news remains quite pertinent—Heard, for instance, that Mr. and Mrs. Robert Latsch had as their Thanksgiving dinner guests, Mrs. E. S. Ogden, Dr. Johanna Ogden and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Collins.

THANKSGIVING dinner places at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Stoner, Jr., were arranged for Mrs. Stoner's parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Becker; her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Schuyler Brown and their family; and Mr. Stoner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Stoner.

DINNER guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Marti were their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Marti, and their daughter, Terri; Mrs. Marti's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dinnel of Omaha, and Mrs. Douglas Marti's sister, Miss Eleanor McCauly.

IN TOWN for Thanksgiving day were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Galloway of Red Oak, Ia., who were the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Stockstill and Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Galloway.

The visitors will return to Red Oak on Friday.

THERE are Thanksgiving week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kimmel, we hear—their sons-in-law and daughters—Mr. and Mrs. James Seybert, of Des Moines, who arrived in Lincoln on Thanksgiving morning—and Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Clark, and young Tracy, Jr., who came from Manhattan, Kan., last Tuesday for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Was Bride On Thanksgiving Day

Yellow fujii chrysanthemums appointed the chancel and altar of the Swedenborgian Church in San Francisco for the wedding of Miss Margaret Sydelles Leslie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Leslie of Jacksonville, Fla., and Frank "Dutch" Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyer of Lincoln, which took place on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 24. The 4 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Othmar Tobiasch, minister of the Swedenborgian Church, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Lucille Barnard, organist.

Mrs. Syd Lambertson, the matron of honor and only attendant, wore a full-skirted frock of ice-blue crystalet, sashed in with blue velvet, and her flowers were fujii chrysanthemums.

Richard Meyer of Lincoln served his brother as best man, and the ushers were Syd Lambertson and Vince Gallo.

The bride appeared in a gown of ice-blue satin and lace. The brief-sleeved bodice was fashioned of lace and narrowed to a pleated satin cummerbund above the wide soft pleats that created the ballerina-length skirt. Her veil was fingertip length and was held to the head with a calot of lace dotted with pearls, and she carried a bouquet of bouvardia centered with white orchids.

Following a reception Mr. Meyer and his bride left for a honeymoon to Southern California after which they will return to San Francisco where they will reside at 425 Eighth Ave.

Mrs. Meyer attended Florida

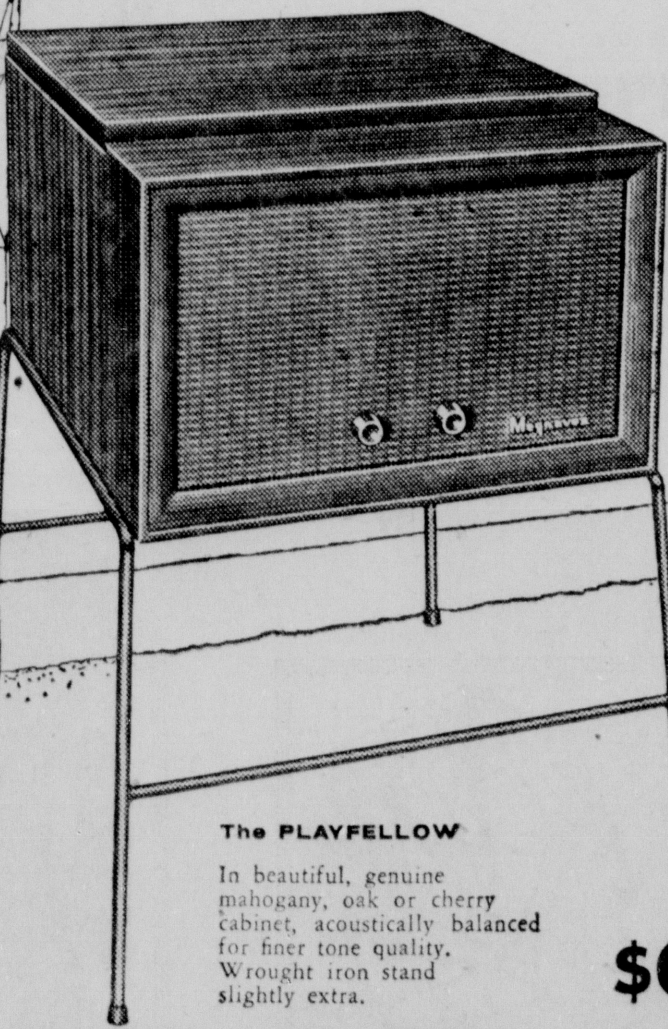

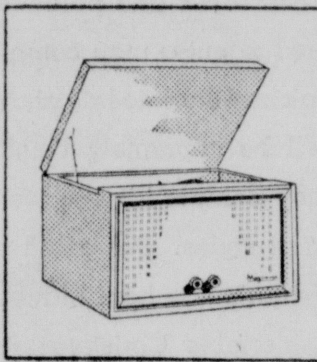

MRS. FRANK MEYER

State University of Tallahassee and is a member of Phi Mu sorority. She now is a member of the faculty of the South San Francisco Unified School District. Mr. Meyer attended Nebraska Wesleyan University; was graduated from the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity, and received his Master's Degree from the University of Colorado. He is coaching and teaching in the South San Francisco Unified School District.

Wedding In Mid-November

The marriage of Miss Marie M. Marxhausen, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. E. J. A. Marxhausen of Courtland, Minn., to Jerry D. Ludwig, son of Mrs. Eunice Ludwig, was solemnized Saturday evening, Nov. 19, at Trinity Lutheran Church. Clusters of lighted white candles appointed the chancel for the 8 o'clock service, which was read by the Rev. Fred Worthman, and the wedding music was played by Ted Beck, organist, who also accompanied the vocal soloist, Melvin King.

The maid of honor and bride's only attendant was Miss Karlyn Ludwig, sister of the bridegroom. Miss Ludwig appeared in a ballerina-length gown of yellow organdy with accessories in matching tone. She carried a nosegay of pompons in autumn shades.

Serving as best man was Benjamin Marxhausen of Omaha, brother of the bride, and seating the guests were Paul Kasl and Dick Smith.

The bride wore for her wedding a gown of white lace and tulle over satin. Long, tapered sleeves and a rounded décolletage accented the snug bodice of lace, and layers of tulle over satin fashioned the full skirt. Her illusion veil was finger-tip length, and she carried a cascade arrange of white chrysanthemums. She completed her ensemble with a strand of pearls and matching earrings, gifts of the bridegroom.

A reception was held in the church parlors, after which the couple left for a wedding trip to Minnesota. Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig will reside at 1707 So. Sixteenth in Lincoln where both are employed.

MRS. ROY LEE HALL

Wedding On Thursday

Cathedral candles in seven-branched candelabra, and arrangements of autumn blossoms formed the background for the marriage of Miss Susan Jolene Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion E. Ball, to Roy Lee Hall of Denver, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Hall of Enid, Okla., which took place on Thursday evening, Nov. 24, in the chapel of the Warren Methodist Church in Denver. The Rev. Lowell Swan solemnized the 8 o'clock service and Mrs. Viola K. Lee, who played the wedding music, also accompanied Averil Skiles, the vocal soloist.

Mrs. Bernard Christner of Wauweta, the matron of honor; and Miss Penny Ball, who was her sister's maid of honor, wore alike frocks of faille taffeta in the bronze tone. The brief-sleeved bodices were designed with V necklines and inverted pleats created the bouffant skirts. Their costumes were completed with frock-toned calots of taffeta and each carried a bouquet of light and dark bronze chrysanthemums.

Don Roberts of Denver served Mr. Hall as best man, and seating the guests was William Ball, brother of the bride.

For her wedding gown the bride chose a gown of white Chantilly lace over pure silk.

The long-sleeved bodice, snugly fitted, was fashioned with a shallow V neckline and the wide skirt of lace, worn over hoops, was given added bouffancy with a petaled redingote of the silk which extended into a chapel train. A coronet of seed pearls held to the head her tiered veil of bridal illusion and she carried a white fujii chrysanthemum.

Following the ceremony a reception for a small group of guests was held at the new home of Mr. Hall and his bride, at 1750 Washington St., Denver.

For the short honeymoon trip Mrs. Hall wore an ensemble of pastel blue jersey, with navy accessories.

The bride now is completing her training in X-ray Technology at St. Luke's Hospital in Denver. Mr. Hall, who served two years with the Air Force, attended Phillips University, Enid, Okla., and now is associated with a merchandise firm in Denver.

DAR Board Will Meet

Mrs. Joseph C. Strain of Hebron, state regent of the Nebraska Society of Daughters of the American Revolution, has called a meeting of the organization's board of management for Saturday.

The meeting will be held at 10 o'clock in the Lancaster Room of the Hotel Cornhusker and will be followed by luncheon at 12:30 o'clock.

State officers attending will include Mrs. H. L. Blackledge, Kearney, vice regent; Mrs. Folsom Gates, Gordon, recording secretary; Mrs. Cecil V. Bullock, Scottsbluff, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harry Ferguson, McCook, treasurer; Mrs. Dave Ablowich, Jr., Grand Island, registrar; Mrs. H. H. Selleck, Alliance, librarian; Mrs. Harold Zinnecker, David City, chaplain; Mrs. A. O. Fasser, Fremont, historian; and Mrs. J. E. McLafferty, publicity.

We Hear That

Mr. and Mrs. John Valentiner had as their guests on Thanksgiving their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Millbern of Ravenna. Mrs. Millbern, the former Jeanne Valentiner, has been in Lincoln visiting her parents since last week end and was joined by her husband in time for the holiday.

Coming from Chicago for Thanksgiving and a brief visit in Lincoln were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Kelly and their son, Mickey, who are guests of Mr. Kelly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Kelly.

Utah Nudges Utah State

SALT LAKE CITY (INS)—Utah's Redskins, led by hard-hitting Herb Nakken and Dave Dungan, edged out a 14-13 victory over Utah State this afternoon in Salt Lake City.

Utah State's Kent Harris and Jack Hill sparked the Aggie attack with Harris driving over for touchdowns in the first and final periods.

Hill's kick for the extra point after the first touchdown was wide to give the Utes the margin of victory.

Utah's touchdowns came early in the second and third periods. Dungan carried over right end and Earl Boss' kick for the extra point was good to put the Utes ahead 7-6 at halftime.

In the third period Nakken took a lateral around left end and romped through the Aggie defense to score Utah's final tally.

Hebron Prospects Listed As 'Fair'

HEBRON — Coach Ralph Moerer describes Hebron High basketball prospects as "only fair" with but one senior, Corky Rowley, on the squad.

Besides Rowley, Moerer has four other lettermen as a nucleus for this year's team. Mel Harmon, 6-foot 4 pivot and Bob Hindman are the only returning regulars. Promising material includes 6-3 Gene Gardner. The Bears will compete in the Trans-Nebbraska Southern Division and the Southern Six Conference. They are defending champions in the Southern Six.

the last seven seconds as the hard-fought battle ended in a near-riot.

With seven seconds to play, Denver halfback Max Willsey carried the ball following a false kickoff and lateraled to Dick Gupton as a tackler caught hold.

Gupton traveled 35 yards to score, dragging a Wyoming defender with him the last five yards.

The false kick came after Wyoming's Joe Mastrogiovanni booted a successful field goal on the previous play from 17 yards out.

Mastrogiovanni earlier had attempted a field goal in the third quarter which was blown off course by a heavy gust of wind. It was a Mastrogiovanni field goal last year that whipped Denver, 23-21, with only a few seconds remaining.

The teams struggled on even terms through the entire contest. Twice Denver was within the Cowboys' 10-yard line but the 'Poke' defenses stiffened up.

Colorado A&M's championship is the first since Coach Bob Davis took over the grid job in 1947. The Ram's league score was 6-1.

The contest was marked occasionally by threatening gestures among the players.

As the game's exciting moments came to a close, hundreds of fans lined the playing field and added to the confusion when Gupton dived into a corner of the end zone for his touchdown.

Several floggings involving the gridders and fans broke out the instant the referee signaled the six-point. The crowds milled around for five minutes before being dispersed by officials.

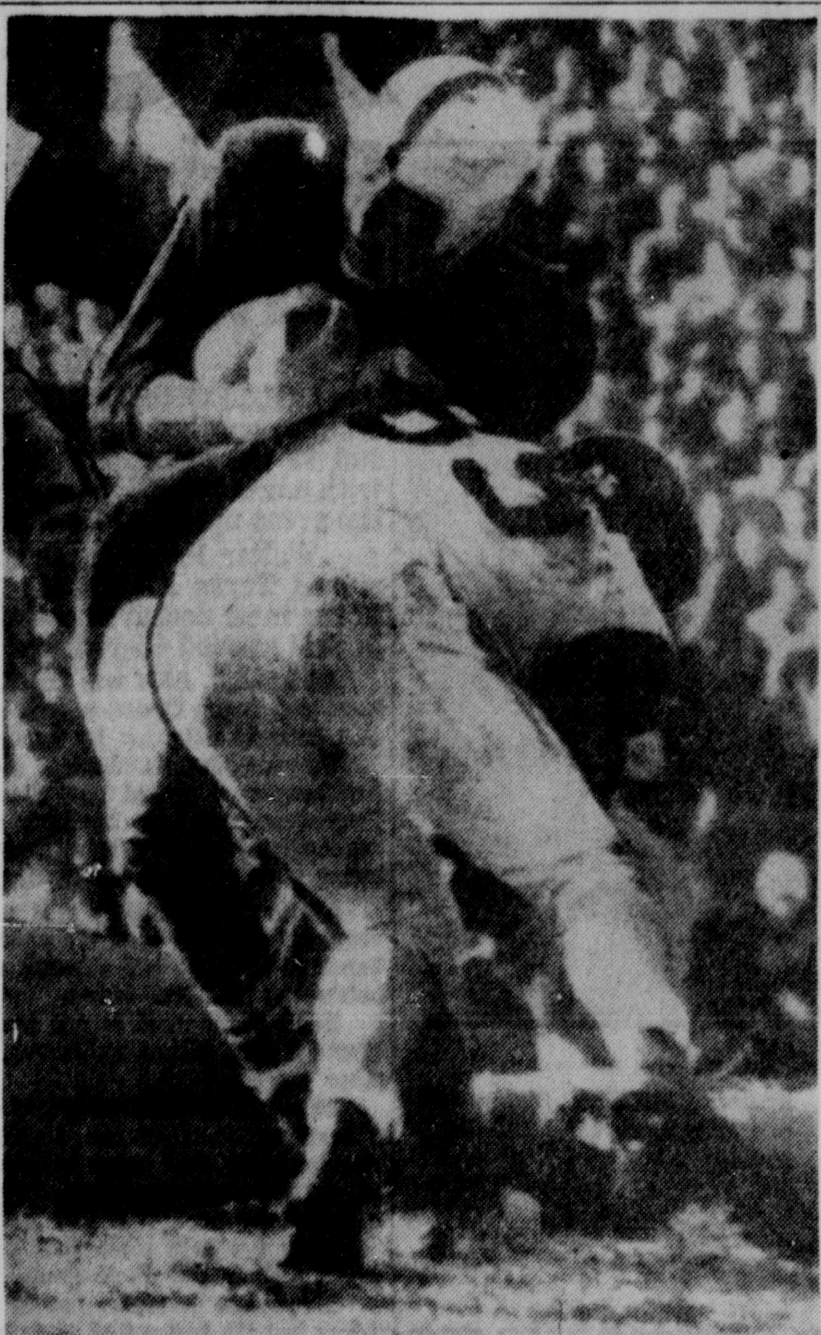

The Denver victory turned the Skyline standings topsy-turvy — shoving Utah into second place and putting Denver and Wyoming in a third place tie.

Beaver's Bolte Back

BEAVER CROSSING — Senior center Allan Bolte is the only letterman on Cal Bentz's Beaver Crossing High basketball squad. A host of last year's reserves are on hand.

Beaver Crossing will compete in the Trailway Conference and Seward County tournaments in addition to its regular schedule.

The clash of the two, solid-punching, strong-jawed middleweight contenders will be broadcast and telecast (NBC-TV and radio, 9 p.m., EST) coast to coast.

Cornell Whips Penn

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Cornell's herd of swift-running backs swept Penn 39-7 in the annual Thanksgiving Day game between these ancient Ivy League rivals. The hapless Quakers found little to be thankful for as they wound up a second straight winless season with their 18th consecutive defeat.

Penn, battered by the likes of Army, Navy and Notre Dame, was thought to have a chance in this return to Ivy League competition but Cornell merely wrote a new chapter in the same old story. The Big Red ripped off two first-quarter touchdowns, added one in the third period and wound up its fifth victory against four losses in 1955 with three touchdowns in the final 15 minutes.

Cornell led 14-0 at half time on a pair of touchdowns by Art Boland, the first a 1-yard plunge at the end of a 58-yard drive and the second a 30-yard sprint to wind up a 64-yard maneuver.

After the scoreless second period, Capt. Dick Jackson smashed 7 yards for a third-quarter touchdown. Bo Roberson cracked 8, Boland passed 20 to Jerry Knapp and Jackson raced 14 yards for three final-period scores. Billy DeGraaf, who sustained a possible fractured jaw in the second quarter, converted three times.

Penn's only chance to grow on Turkey Day came in the third period, when trailing 21-0, Bill Young sprinted 3 yards into the end zone and Frank Riepl converted.

Miami Blanks Cincinnati 14-0

CINCINNATI, O. (INS)—Miami of Ohio scored two final period touchdowns Thursday to beat Cincinnati, 14-0, and complete its first unbeaten and untied season since 1921.

The Redskins' victory qualified them for a possible bid to the 'Gator Bowl.

The ball changed hands on three straight fumbles before Miami scored its first touchdown early in the fourth quarter. Then Miami quarterback Tom Dimitroff passed 24 yards to end Pres Bliss for the six points.

Later in the period, Tirrel Burton lunged over from the one-yard line for the Redskins' second touchdown. Dimitroff kicked both points.

Miami closed its season with nine victories and no defeats. Included in the Ohioans' win string was a victory over Big Ten Northwestern.

William & Mary, Richmond Tie 6-6

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—An underdog William and Mary football team held favored Richmond to a 6-6 deadlock before a Thanksgiving Day crowd of 12,000 and kept the Spiders from moving into second place in the Southern Conference.

Richmond, which hasn't beaten W&M on the gridiron since 1938, had opportunity after opportunity but missed all but one. The Spiders' touchdown came in the late stages of the first quarter when end Phil Curley blocked an end zone punt from the toe of halfback Charlie Sidwell and sprawled on the pigskin.

End Jack Wilson converted for the extra point, but Richmond was guilty of holding. Wilson faked a kick the next time, and quarterback Tommy Theodose flipped an incomplete pass into the end zone. William and Mary ..... 6 0 0 6-6
Richmond ..... 6 0 0 6-6
W&M scoring—Touchdown: Secules (1, plunge).

Colgate Raps Brown, 25-0

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — Colgate's Jack Call wheeled 27 yards to score on his team's first scrimmage play Thursday as the opponent Red Raiders turned Brown errors into a 25-0 victory.

A fumble recovery on the second play of the game set up the first of Call's two touchdowns as Colgate won its 19th in this traditional Thanksgiving Day series. Brown has won 11 with seven finishing as ties.

Early in the second period, quarterback Guy Martin plunged the final yard on a 46-yard move begun when center Frank Solana intercepted a pass.

Call, the junior halfback from Cortland, N. Y., swung around end from 6 yards out to can a 74-yard march in nine plays after the second-half kickoff.

The Red Raider backfield of Call,

Martin, Frank Nardulli and fullback Ed Whitehair was at its best in the big drive. Call went 13 yards on the first play and Whitehair 10 to his 49. On third down at the Brown 46, Martin passed to Capt. Fran Angeline for 27 yards to the 15. Four plays later, Call had the touchdown.

Brown was frustrated in two long marches, being stopped by the Raider defense at Colgate's 4 in the third period and again at the 7 in the fourth.

Colgate added a fourth score late in the fourth period on a 70-yard pass play from Martin to end Milt Graham who grabbed the ball at the sideline by himself and outran his pursuers. The score ended a 93-yard drive after the Raiders had stopped the Bruins the second time.

Ord High Prospects 'Bright'

ORD—Coach Bill Gogan, after watching his Chanticleers whip through a nine-game football schedule without a loss, predicts a "bright" future for the basketball team.

Gogan started with a basketball squad of 44, including 10 returning lettermen.

Lynn Nelson, senior, tops the lettermen at 6 feet 4 inches. A promising prospect is senior Tom Anderson, also 6-4.

Ord will bid for two league championships—The Three Louts and the Central Ten West Division.

Ice Nice, Snow Low

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP) —The ice is nice but the snow is low at this Alpine resort where the 1956 winter Olympics will be held.

But experts aren't worried about the snow. A few inches already cover some stretches of the hills where the giant slalom and downhill events will be held.

Much more snow is expected long before the Olympic start late in January.

Demo Optimism Countered By Growing GOP Belief Ike Will Run

By William Theis
WASHINGTON (INS) — Democratic optimism about the 1956 presidential outlook is being countered by a spreading Republican belief that President Eisenhower will seek re-election.

Republicans are hoping that GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall will be able to take some encouraging word about the presidential situation to next week's national committee meeting in Chicago.

Hall will confer with the President Monday at Gettysburg, his first visit with the chief executive since Mr. Eisenhower suffered his heart attack in Denver in September.

The GOP chairman carefully refrained from seeking an appointment with the chief executive during his early weeks of recuperation, when other high officials were going to Denver on official business.

Determined

Realistically, GOP leaders do not expect the President to give Hall any word this early on whether he will run again. Hall, his friends say, is determined not to ask the question himself.

But they concede that any briefing of the President on GOP developments since his illness began cannot avoid some reference to party concern over the question of who is to head the ticket next year.

More Republicans now feel there is a good chance the President will run again, assuming his recovery continues at its present hopeful pace.

Cabinet officers who participated in conferences with the President at Camp David were said to have come away encouraged. Some GOP senators who at the time of the President's heart attack felt he had been taken out of the 1956 contest, now feel strongly he will "go again."

Assuming

Democratic leaders who met in Chicago last week were generally assuming the President would retire after his first term but frankly "didn't know." They were about evenly divided in their guessing but pretty well believed that improved Democratic prospects would bring them victory regardless of who headed the GOP ticket.

Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic nominee who announced his candidacy for the presidential nomination at Chicago, emerged from the party jamboree as the clear favorite of those present.

Stevenson said he would never make the President's health a campaign issue but conceded that it would be "foolish" to assume it could be kept completely out of campaign discussion.

There were many Democrats who said privately that if the Republicans ran the President despite his heart condition they must be prepared to explain their action to the voters.

Democrats made it equally clear they were aware of the political hazards in criticism of Mr. Eisenhower's health back-firing against their own ticket.

FTC Charges Unfair Action By 2 Firms

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Federal Trade Commission Thursday charged two major food store chains and 11 food manufacturers with discrimination against other retail grocers in sales promotion.

The charges grew out of special anniversary sales by the two chains, Food Fair Stores, Inc., and the giant Food Shopping Center.

The FTC said the manufacturers gave the chains special allowances to promote sales without making the allowances available to competing stores on "proportionately equal terms."

Food Fair and Giant were accused of inducing these special allowances and the FTC said they "knew or should have known" that they were not being offered to their competitors.

The government agency said the practice was "to the prejudice and injury" of Food Fair and Giant's competitors, and was "an unfair method of competition" in violation of the Federal Trade Act.

Three Areas May Protest Annexation By City Of Omaha

OMAHA — Omaha's move to annex six Douglas county areas to the city may wind up in court from three angles. Notice of intention to go to court in protest of the city council annexation ordinance has been given by attorneys for persons living in three tracts the city wants.

They will have to file before midnight Dec. 31, the time the council set for the ordinance to become effective. Two of the areas are in the northwest county area and the third in the west section.

Attorneys for residents in these areas protested at the council ordinance hearing. There were no protests from six other areas south-west of the present city limits.

If the protestors do go to court their case would rest in the main on a contention the areas contain agricultural lands which are rural in character. State law bans annexation of such areas by a city.

Actor Dies

LOS ANGELES — James A. Millican, 45, character actor who appeared in more than 400 films, died after a brief illness.

Born in Palisades, N. Y., he came to Hollywood in 1933 and became one of its most active performers. A recent player on television, he had appeared in such movies as "Strategic Air Command" and "High Noon."

Six Are Hurt, One Seriously, In Auto Crash

Lincoln Star Special

WILBER, Neb. — Six persons were injured — one seriously — in a two-car Thanksgiving Day crash at a country road intersection 13 miles southwest of here.

Seriously hurt in the Crete Hospital was Mrs. Marie Haas, 81, of Tobias. Four other Tobias residents were also hospitalized for injuries they received when their car was turned over by the collision's impact.

They were:

Joe Svajgr, 45, with face and head gashes; his wife, Marie, 44, with undetermined injuries; and their children, Marilyn, 6, and Barbara, 12, both with cuts and bruises.

Another person, riding in the second vehicle, was hospitalized. He was Otto Vilda of Wilber. Larry Vilda, 16, and the driver, Robert Liska, 24, of Burlingame, Kan., were not hurt.

Everyone was thrown from the second vehicle except the youngest girl, Sheriff John Tesar said. He added that a complete Thanksgiving dinner—turkey, cakes and everything — was scattered across the road.

The Svajgrs, he said, were within a mile of a relative's home, where they were to spend the holiday.

"Great idea you had ... giving the kids toy hatchets as favors for Wilbert's birthday party!"

Turkey Saved

CHICAGO — Fire destroyed the home of the Forrest W. Ayres family but not their Thanksgiving turkey.

A defective furnace set off the blaze in the rented West Side bungalow as Mrs. Estelle Ayres was preparing dinner. She and two sons, Harold, and Kenneth, fled out a rear door. Ayres was not at home.

Firemen fighting flames inside the home came upon the sizzling turkey in the oven. They rescued the 19-pound bird and carried it out to Mrs. Ayres. It was eaten later at the home of a daughter.

W. V. Bradley, TV Producer, Killed In Auto Mishap

SAN FRANCISCO — William V. Bradley, Television newscaster and producer, stepped out of his stalled car on a dark street to his death here Thursday.

He was on his way home from his studio.

A young Navy man on Thanksgiving home leave from the Port Hueneme Base, James McCarthy, 23, crashed into Bradley's sports auto and his car struck the newscaster in the street, police said.

Officer Ken Samuels reported McCarthy said he didn't see Bradley.

Bradley, 35, was known as "Bill" to KPIX television viewers of his weekday news broadcasts. He leaves his wife, Helen, a 2-year-old daughter, Ann, and a baby son, William V. Jr.

Lincolnite With Candy Firm 50 Years

By ELLIS RALL
Star Staff Writer

"Charlie" has been in the candy business a long time — this is his 50th year in fact.

With the same company, too, even though it did change hands in 1943.

"Charlie" is C. L. Graham of 2011 So. Cotner. He started out in the business with the Gillen Candy Co. in 1905. When the firm was purchased in 1943 by Russell Stover Candies, he stayed on.

Half of his 50 years was spent as a candy salesman. He started out selling on the Lincoln city streets. That lasted two years.

For another year he traveled in western Nebraska and northwestern Kansas as a candy salesman.

Then his territory switched to south central Nebraska.

For around 25 years "Charlie" peddled candy. When asked how many miles he had traveled, he said, "I'd hate to say."

Wore Out 5 Autos

Nevertheless, he did wear out five autos. His first one was purchased in 1918. Prior to that, he said he either traveled by horse and carriage or by rail.

Later, however, he did admit that for 24 of the 25 years he averaged an estimated 37,000 annually. That would mean that he has covered around 888,000 miles in that time.

Customers' tastes for candy have changed somewhat over the years, he commented. In the early days, he sold a lot of hard candy. Now days, the big seller is chocolates.

Candy packaging has changed also, he observed. Cheaper grade chocolates then were sold in pails and the higher grade product was sold bulk.

"Charlie" ended his selling in 1932 when he went to work in the shipping room filling orders. In 1943 he worked in the factory at the chocolate kettle. Just as today, he said, this job required that the chocolate be kept at the right temperature and held there so that it would be ready for the dippers.

After two years in the factory he transferred to an elevator operator, the job which he holds today.

The 79-year-old Lincoln-born and Lincoln-raised employee has the energy and moves with the speed of a man 20 years his junior.

His boss, Freeman Everett, manager of Russell Stover, said Graham was never late and was a very "loyal employee."

Every morning he rises at 6:30 sharp and is at his post at 7:30. Everett said "Charlie" is never late.

After half a century around candy, does he still like it? You bet. Only he said he had to watch the amount he ate because of his stomach.

"Charlie" and his wife Carrie celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary a few years ago. They have three sons and one daughter.

Nominees For 'Governor' Of Hi-Y Named

Burnell Lindquist of Lincoln, Richard Pollard of Alliance, C. G. Wallace of Hastings and Frank Tomson of Omaha are nominees for governor in the fifth annual Hi-Y Youth and Government program.

More than 100 Nebraska high school students will come to Lincoln Friday for the two-day event.

Elected officers include Roger Massey, Grand Island, secretary of state; Kenneth Ash, Omaha, clerk of the Legislature; George Pugsley, Scottsbluff, chaplain; and Kenneth Wacker, Lincoln, sergeant-at-arms.

The boys will convene in a "model Legislature" to consider bills prepared by the approximately 2,000 Hi-Y members in Nebraska.

Gov. Victor Anderson and Dr. Clifford Hardin, University of Nebraska chancellor, will speak.

Senators and state officials who will take part are Hugo S. Norris, J. Anderson, Jack W. Rodgers, John J. Wilson, Franz C. Radke, Francis Robinson, Frank Marsh, Robert McNutt, Leonard Fleetwood, Tom Davies, Tom Adams and former Gov. Robert Crosby.

Maurice Hyde of Lincoln is chairman of the sponsoring committee which includes these Lincoln men: Warren R. Baller, Thomas M. Davies, Elmer E. Magee, Joe W. Seacrest and Clarence Swanson.

The advisory committee includes Robert Crosby, Dr. A. C. Breckenridge, J. G. W. Lewis, Maurice Hyde, Hugo S. Norris and Alden King, all of Lincoln.

Veteran

C. L. "Charlie" Graham, now in his 50th year with the same company, is an expert on candy. He has been in the business half a century—25 years as a salesman. Now an elevator operator at the same firm, he is shown placing a load of the finished product on the elevator. (Star Staff Photo)

Dead Reformatory Inmate's Mother To Attend Hearing

OMAHA (AP)—Mrs. Ann Mathiason of Omaha, whose son, Richard Hoffman, 23, died in the Nebraska Reformatory, said Thursday she plans to be in Lincoln Monday for the George Morris oyster hearing.

Mrs. Mathiason said she had been expecting word from the Board of Control about the hearing, but had heard nothing, and she feared she would "not be recognized" at the hearing. She said she had once been asked to appear for the Board of Control.

She said she "had never received a satisfactory explanation of her son's death," and that "he had not received proper attention."

Hoffman died Feb. 23 while serving a term in the Reformatory for breaking and entering an automobile.

After his death an inquiry was held and Lancaster County Attorney Elmer Scheele ruled there was no criminal negligence in connection with his death. Scheele said an autopsy confirmed a preliminary finding that Hoffman had died of poisoning of the liver.

He said he had concluded there was neither an act or failure to act on the part of any person connected with the care and treatment of Hoffman which would constitute a violation of state criminal laws.

Solar Stoves Available, But Not For Breakfast

WASHINGTON (AP)—A scientist reports that there are solar stoves for sale in India that need no fuel.

However, Dr. K. N. Mathur of India's national physical laboratory, told a news conference here that the stove can be used only for lunch.

He said he doubts the $24 reflective stove will be a complete success because you can't cook breakfast on it—too early, and tea is too late.

4 Killed, 2 Are Injured In Car Crash

LIVONIA, Mich. (INS) — Four persons were killed Thursday and two injured in a head-on collision in Livonia, Mich., as two speeding youths swerved into the opposite lane to avoid hitting a pedestrian.

The victims were: Joseph Adams, 41, his wife, Ann, and one of his sons, Norman, 7, all of Taylor township. Another son, Larry Adams, 12, was seriously injured in the accident.

The fourth victim was Joseph Robert Zascavage, 21, of Detroit, the driver of the second vehicle. A passenger, Peter Kenneth Koch, 20, of Dearborn, Mich., was badly injured.

According to witnesses, Zascavage and Koch were traveling at an excessive rate of speed on Edward Hines road in Livonia. They swerved into the opposite lane to avoid hitting a woman who was crossing the street and slammed into Adams' car.

Cops Search For Chicago Slaying Clue

CHICAGO (AP) — Police made a house-to-house canvass of a South Side neighborhood Thursday in their hunt for clues in the strangulation of a divorced mother of six.

The body of Mrs. Edith Jamieson, 48, was found Wednesday in an alley three blocks from her South Side home. She was bound with rope and garrotted, but police said she was neither robbed nor raped.

The body was found less than three hours after she left her job as a night worker in a downtown bank. A transfer found in her wallet showed she had started home by bus.

Police are questioning residents of the neighborhood in the hope that someone saw or heard something that will aid in solution of the killing.

Robert S. Dean, 37, a night cab driver, was given a lie detector test Thursday but police said the results were inconclusive because of his weariness from lack of sleep.

Woodpecker Suite

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A New York animal dealer, preparing a shipment of birds to the zoo here, should have known better when he packed two great spotted woodpeckers in a crate separated from each other by a wood partition. The partition had a hole in it, and the woodpeckers — friends, no doubt — were together when the shipment arrived.

Pick Groups To Draft Church Merger Plan

PHILADELPHIA — The Permanent Committee on Interchurch Relations of the United Presbyterian Church and the Permanent Commission on Interchurch Relations of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. have appointed drafting committees to formulate a plan of union for the two churches.

These actions implement those taken by the General Assemblies of the churches last spring.

Members appointed to the United Presbyterian drafting committee are:

Rev. Dr. Robert Gibson, President of Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., chairman; Dr. Tim J. Campbell, Newton, Ia.; Rev. Dr. George U. Martin, Steubenville, O.; Miss Edith L. McNamee, Pittsburgh; Rev. Dr. Samuel W. Shane, Stated Clerk of the General Assembly, Pittsburgh; and Rev. Dr. Professor T. M. Taylor, Pittsburgh-Xenia Theological Seminary, Xenia, N. J.

Members of the Presbyterian U.S.A. committee:

Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, President, Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn., chairman; Rev. Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson, Chicago; Mr. Davitt S. Bell, Pittsburgh; Rev. Dr. E. C. Blake, Stated Clerk of the General Assembly, Philadelphia; Mrs. W. Verne Buchanan, New Philadelphia, O.; and Rev. Dr. John A. Mackay, President, Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N. J.

The Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. has a membership of 2,658,903; the United Presbyterian Church 237,233.

State Of Siegel's Nearing For Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Congress moved Thursday toward final approval of a state of siege throughout Brazil as signs appeared rival factions were trying to find ways of ending their violent political war.

The Chamber of Deputies early Thursday voted 178-91 to proclaim a state of siege—modified martial law—and give Provisional President Nereu Ramos and his military backers strong powers to suppress disorders and prevent the return of Joao Cafe Filho to the presidency.

As the Chamber wound up 14 hours of debate, the Senate went into session before dawn to debate the bill. Many senators announced they would speak before their vote is taken.

Fear a Dictatorship

During the debate party leaders huddled privately. Although they declined to speak for publication,

Well-Rounded Education

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—With the possible exception of Methuselah nobody could live long enough to take all the courses offered by Yale University. The curriculum of 1,450 courses and a student would need more than 350 academic years to go through all of them, reports President A. Whitney Griswold.

they indicated they were seeking grounds to compromise their differences. They were spurred on to talk peace because of fears the constitutional government might collapse and a military dictatorship take over.

Brazil has had three presidents in 17 days and the government has been in a constant state of turmoil. Only strong military support from War Minister Henrique Teixeira Lott has kept the government from toppling.

However, the atmosphere in Rio de Janeiro was outwardly calm. The government denied rumors banks would be closed or restricted when the state of siege is made effective.

Army troops stationed at key points returned to their barracks. The Army continued to guard the presidential palace against the possibility of a surprise attack on Ramos. The private apartment of Cafe in the fashionable Copacabana district was guarded by a federal police riot squad. He is under virtual house arrest.

Byrd Sees Permanent Bases In Antarctic

Admiral Set For Fifth Trip To Bottom Of World

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd said Thursday he expects the forthcoming Navy expedition to Little America will lead to a permanent system of United States bases in the strategically important Antarctic.

The admiral, bound for his fifth journey to the bottom of the world also said a Russian expedition is setting up expedition bases on the opposite side of the Antarctic continent, in a huge area virtually unexplored up to this time.

Will Russian and American scientists work together in this phase of the "International Geophysical Year?" he was asked at a news conference.

"Oh, yes," said Byrd. He added that in meetings held at Rome and Brussels, the Soviets expressed "great interest." One Russian base will be at Knochland, approximately facing the southern tip of Africa, another near the geomagnetic pole several hundred miles away from the geographical South Pole and near the center of the vast unexplored region, Byrd said.

The various nations participating in the joint scientific studies will have a total of 35 bases on the Antarctic continent, Byrd said.

The admiral reported that the three bases and part of another which he established in earlier expeditions, beginning in 1929, are still in existence at Little America—"contrary to popular belief." But the steady pile-up of snow over the years has put the first base under about 40 feet of snow, with another Little America "village" covered at about half that depth.

To a question about the future of the new bases, Byrd said:

"I think this will be a permanent thing from now on. I think this is the beginning of permanent bases, permanent little villages down there. I don't think Little America will be such a lonely place from now on."

He estimated that about 500 persons might make the permanent system of villages mostly civilians. The rest, about 10 per cent, would be military personnel.

Would any wives be among these new residents of the Antarctic? Byrd, who in one of his expeditions spent weeks alone in a hut far down toward the South Pole, didn't answer that one directly. He thought it over, then with a small grin replied:

"It happens that no woman has ever stepped on Little America—and we have found it to be the most silent and peaceful place in the world."

Radiological Health Seminar Is Set At NU

Forty scientists, civil defense and public health workers concerned with the use of radiation will attend a radiological health seminar at the University of Nebraska Monday through Wednesday.

The seminar faculty will present lectures, films and demonstrations to show environmental health hazards of use of radiation and recommend procedure for protection against or minimizing such hazards.

Taking part will be three staff members of the Robert A. Taft Sanitary Engineering Center, U.S. Public Health Service research and study installation, Cincinnati, Ohio; O. John Schmidt, assistant regional engineer, U.S. Public Health Service, and Theodore Jorgensen, Jr., University professor of physics.

Dr. Jorgensen will discuss "Radiation in the Future" at the Monday afternoon session.

The seminar, to be held at the Student Union, is sponsored by the Nebraska State Department of Health, U.S. Public Health Service and the University of Nebraska Health Service and Extension Division.

Car Said Hit Before Striking Third Vehicle

A story in the Thursday morning Star incorrectly reported that the car of Paul C. Henn, 39, 1901 So. 51st, rammed the rear of another car and was then struck from behind by a third car in an accident near 13th and G.

According to Henn, his car struck the vehicle in front only after being shoved ahead by the car in back of him. Henn reported the accident occurred 51 feet south of the intersection of 13th and G, and not west as previously reported.

Beef Gains

CHICAGO (INS)—The American Meat Institute estimates that hamburger and other ground beef are taking some 2,270,000,000 lbs. of the total beef produced this year. That, the institute adds, is almost 14 pounds per capita. It also is 92 million pounds higher than last year, or 4.2 per cent.

-Israel-Arabs- Yugoslavia Might Try Arbitration Officials Meet In Jerusalem

LONDON (INS) — Britain and Yugoslavia moved into front-rank peacemaker roles Thursday in the dangerous Israeli-Arab dispute.

The British said they were acting in "very close agreement" with the United States.

Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden repeated his offer to have Britain act as a mediator in the middle eastern crisis, at the same time replying to pro-Israeli critics who claimed his offer favored the Arab states.

The United Nations neutral truce commission also stepped up its efforts to bring peace to the holy land.

Truce Chief Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns announced in Jerusalem he expected to resume talks shortly with Israel and Egypt on UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld's demand last month to "cease all aggressive activities and retaliations" under a new truce plan which was not made public.

Confer On Mid-East

The possibility of Yugoslav intervention arose when acting Israeli Foreign Minister Mrs. Golda Myerson conferred in Jerusalem with Yugoslav Minister Yovan Wokmanovitz.

A communique acknowledged that the two discussed the middle eastern situation and added to reports that Israel is using Yugoslav good offices to mediate with Egypt.

Yugoslav President Marshal Tito is due to visit Cairo next month.

U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was believed to have urged Tito to play the peacemaker in the middle east when the two talked early this month during a break in the Geneva Conference.

Current informed speculation is that an offer of mediation has come from Belgrade and that Israel is ready to accept it. Gideon Raphael, the chief Israeli foreign office expert on contacts with the Arab states, is expected to visit Belgrade shortly before Tito goes to Cairo.

Much Comment

The Yugoslav entry into the mediation picture touched off considerable diplomatic comment. The Egyptians have requested the Italian government to take a mediation role, and recent relations between Rome and Belgrade have been almost as touchy as between Israel and Egypt.

Eden told the House of Commons Thursday, under brisk Laborite questioning, that Britain still is willing to offer its services as a mediator even though Israel rejected his original offer made in a speech Nov. 9.

Eden said he did not consult either Egypt or Israel before his original offer which mentioned negotiations based on the 1947 United Nations resolution that marked the proposed borders of the Jewish state.

Israeli Army Complains

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP) —An Israeli army spokesman complained Thursday of three attacks on Israel, two from Egyptian and one from Jordanian territory.

He said an armed band from Jordan Wednesday night penetrated Israel near Mevo Betar, an Israeli settlement in the Judean Hills eight miles southwest of Jerusalem and two miles from the Jordan frontier.

The invaders were driven off in an exchange of shots, the spokesman said.

He also reported that Egyptians inside the Gaza strip — Egyptian territory — yesterday fired on—but did not hit—an Israeli plane near Beri, which is about six miles southeast of Gaza on the Israeli side of the border.

Later, Egyptian positions inside the strip fired on Israeli positions near Beri, the spokesman said.
